Mussolini Waiting?
England Building
Why Japan Advances
Match This, Mr. Swope

The London Times and Universal Service announce a clash between Ethiopians and Italians, twenty Ethiopians and forty Italians killed, a stream supplying the Italian camp turned in a new direction and the Italians compelled to retreat.

Rome "has no information" on this incident. Perhaps Mussolini, who knows that war should supply only good news, is waiting to add something such as:

"Air bombardment of Addis Ababa has inflicted swift retribution for the killing of forty Italians."

England apparently thinks something is about to happen and something unpleasant. She will spend seven hundred and fifty million dollars on more fighting ships. The "secret plans" will include 12 battleships, 33 cruisers, 3 destroyers, 21 new submarines and 3 aircraft carriers. One hundred and thirty is the total of new warships to be built by the British.

All this Britain thinks she needs to keep open her sea lanes for food supplies, that her islands may not be starved, and to defend her commercial ships afloat. We have an advantage in possessing practically no commercial ships afloat, but we have cities that could be gassed and bombed very conveniently.

We also have eight thousand million dollars' worth of gold buried in a hole somewhere, that could easily be extracted by gentlemen with a big enough air fleet over Washington, D. C.

Everybody knows that Japan has accomplished wonders since Perry sailed his ship to the Japanese capital, was politely received and opened Japan to the western world.

If you ask WHY has Japan gone ahead so fast, here are two answers, incomplete, but important:

First: No Japanese child is brutally punished as children are punished in "Christian" countries. No Japanese father or mother beats a child. If you raise your hand to a western "Christian" child, the child will scream and run. Do that to a Japanese child and it will smile in your face. It knows that men never strike children.

Second: Japan leads all other nations in literacy, the ability to read, which means ability to absorb knowledge. It can't be done without reading.

In 1925, 99.4 per cent of all children in Japan attended school. In 1927, 93 per cent of all Japanese could read. All nations repeat the saying:

"Give light and the people will find their own way."

The Japanese give light through education.

The General Electric Company has developed, electrically, a temperature of 13,000 degrees Fahrenheit, announced as "hotter than the sun's 9000 degrees."

But 9000 is only the sun's external temperature.

Go some distance into the sun's interior, where atoms are throwing off electrons to supply us and other planets with heat and light, and you would find a temperature of 40,000,000 degrees centigrade. When will Gerard Swope develop that temperature artificially?

An intelligent group of motorists announce a "safe driving campaign for August," urging automobile drivers to consider safety, particularly in their own cars.

The safest thing would be to send tens of thousands of cars now running to the junk pile, get new cars and live longer. Modern tires give miraculous mileage, but often they look "good for ten thousand miles more" when they have reached the danger point.

Mr. W. A. James, of Detroit, suggests wisely that drivers "analyze their own driving for habitual mistakes." The worst mistake is too high speed, the next worst is turning your head away from the road. It takes less than a second to be killed.

It is suggested that the League of Nations take over control of Ethiopia and run that fertile country. Some Ethiopians, probably, would prefer to be run by Mussolini. Under his flag they might "get somewhere." They would probably not do that under League of Nations control.

Someone has said:

"A committee cannot run a newspaper."

It cannot run a country either.

In Jugo-Slavia, twenty years ago, Alexander Bogar, now living in Minneapolis, Minn., killed a friend in a fight. Wishing to make amends, he offered to marry the widow. That could not be done. He has saved $15,000, working in mines, and now offers the money to the 22-year-

SENATE OK'S CURLEY BONDS

George Favored 10 to 9 Over Danno

'May Best Man Win,' Says Ring Champion

$20,800,000 ASSURED ON TWO VOTES

By a vote of 29 to 8 the Senate voiced its approval of the $13,000,000 highway, harbor and grade crossing project today.

By a vote of 22 to 15 the second measure, a $7,800,000 public building program was sent to the House for enactment.

Governor Curley's $20,800,000 bond issue plan for work and wages won an important test in the Senate today.

The vote on this test indicated that the opposition does not have sufficient votes to block final passage even though the final stage requires a two-thirds vote in favor.

The bond issue measure is in two sections, and the Senate first took p a $13,000,000 program for highway construction, grade crossing elimination and harbor improvements.

PARKMAN MOVE BALKED

Senator Parkmen first moved substitution of the minority bill calling for a bond issue of but $4,000,000 for the $13,000,000 majority recommendation for highway construction, harbor improvements and grade crossing elimination. After defeat of this move he tried to substitute the minority bill for a bond issue of $4,500,000 for the $7,800,000 majority bill for a public building program.

Insofar as the majority and minority reports have to do with matching federal funds, he contended, their provisions are identical. Parkman attached a statement circulated among the senators by Senator Joseph A. Langone, Jr., of Boston, in which was claimed that the minority wanted to substitute "soup kitchens" for "work and wages."

Parkman then started to read a statement alleged to have come from Representative Albert E. Bigelow, chairman of the House ways and means committee and leader of the opposition forces in the House.

Senator George G. Moyse, Republican chairman of the Senate ways and means committee, interrupted to remark that it was "misleading."

SIDEWALK PLAN HIT

When Parkman again got the floor he attacked the $4,000,000 item in the majority report calling for sidewalks for state highways.

"This should be classed with the billboard legislation," he asserted.

Senator Donald W. Nicholson of Wareham, who recently resigned as Republican floor leader, declared his intention to vote for the $13,000,000 majority bill, but against the $7,800,000 bond issue for public buildings. Under the $13,000,000 bill, he said, the man who owns property "doesn't pay a cent."

Substitution as moved by Parkman failed on voice vote. A standing vote was ordered, which resulted, 7 for substitution and 16 against. The rollcall which followed showed 10 for and 28 against.

On motion of Senator William A. Davenport of Greenfield an amendment was adopted under which the $13,000,000 bond issue will be financed entirely from the highway fund, better known as the "gas" tax. The bill was then ordered to a third reading on a rising vote and engrossed under suspension of the rules by a rollcall of 29 to 8.

$5000 JEWEL ROBBERY AT COHASSET

Robbery of nearly $5000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Clifford V. Miller, daughter of chain store president William J. Davidson, was discovered today at the Davidson estate in Cohasset.

Description of the jewelry was transmitted over the state-wide police teletype. Listed among the pieces were a number of items worth in the vicinity of a thousand dollars each.

Lieutenant Michael Fleming of the State Police began an investigation, aided by Cohasset police.

The Millers, who live in West Newton, have been visiting Mrs. Miller's parents in Cohasset.

How thieves could gain entrance to the Davidson estate, one of the show places of the South Shore, baffled the police.

Police believe that the pieces of jewelry, because of their expensive nature and unique design, will be easily traceable.

Among the articles described and valued by the police the more important were:

A diamond and platinum mesh bracelet $1500
A solitaire diamond and sapphire ring 850
A diamond and sapphire open circle brooch 700
A baguette princess ring, three diamonds 600
A diamond brooch, open with square ends 400
A diamond horse on crop pin .. 350

Several less valuable pins, rings and brooches totaling in value about $500.

Congress for Only 3 Months Is Promise

By Associated Press

Washington, July 30—A quiet tip that Congress will be kept in session only three months next year is being passed along by some Democratic leaders. They hope it will encourage members growing daily more anxious to get back home, fishing grounds or to mending political fences.

A majority leader in the House, speaking privately, acknowledged today the three-month word was winging along. He insisted the estimate is accurate despite arguments to the contrary.

The short session predictions, of course, are made with next year's election in mind.

DOUG AND LADY Drop In on Paris

Paris, July 30 (INS)—Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., and Lady Ashley, English friend, arrived here today enroute to Italy.

"We are leaving for Italy tonight on just the usual movie plans," Fairbanks told interviewers. "We are returning to Paris and then I am going to Japan."

Asked whether he intended to marry Lady Ashley soon, Fairbanks replied brusquely:

"That's personal and I refuse to answer."

NEGRO SEIZED By Mob in South

Louisburg, N. C., July 30 (AP)—Sweat Ward, Negro axe slayer of C. J. Stokes, Franklin County farmer, was taken from Sheriff J. T. Moore today by a mob of 25 men who headed with the Negro in the direction of Hayesville township, scene of the slaying.

Aliens serving life sentences would be released from prison after serving 10 years and deported under the provisions of a bill filed today with the legislature by Senator Edward C. Carroll of Boston.

Shames Dad

This is the old story that always makes news:

It—wasn't—loaded!

But it was!

And that's why they took 16-year-old Robert Adair to Faulkner Hospital in W. Roxbury today, after he had accidentally discharged the .33 calibre rifle he was cleaning.

He's back home now, after treatment for a wound in his left foot.

But this story doesn't always end that way!

P. S.—Robert is the son of Andrew K. Adair, police expert on firearms, at Milk st. station.

O'MAHONEY ON SHORT END OF ODDS

By JACK CONWAY

Ed Don George and Danno O'Mahoney are prepared to furnish one of the most thrilling wrestling bouts ever held in this country when they clash in a world's heavyweight championship match at Braves Field tonight.

George, the champion, rules a 10-to-9 favorite, but Danno has plenty of backers who are confident he will win.

Jimmy Braddock, world's heavyweight boxing champion, will referee. He arrived here last night in the company of Mrs. Braddock and Joe Gould, his manager.

"I look for a hard battle when O'Mahoney and George clash," said Braddock. "I shall insist that both men abide by the rules of wrestling. Each will receive a fair deal, and may the better man win.

Braddock took time out to say he was anxious to defend his title against Joe Louis next June in New York.

"Louis and myself will draw $300,000," said Braddock. "I shall carry the fight to the 'Brown Bomber 'and am confident I can knock him out."

It is expected that 60,000 persons will see George and O'Mahoney clash tonight. The great show is being staged by Paul Bowser for the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The third man in the ring when Danno O'Mahoney and Ed Don George meet at Braves Field for the world's wrestling championship tonight will be James J. Braddock, who won the world's heavyweight boxing title from Max Baer in New York a few weeks ago. Braddock arrived in Boston last night with Mrs. Braddock. He said he looked for a hard battle between the two grapplers and would see that each man got a fair deal.

Handrahan Is Hero at Hull

Joseph Handrahan, Dartmouth football player, spending his summer vacation working as a Hull policeman, rescued a woman in the heaviest surf of the summer today.

The woman he rescued, off the beach at Kenberma, is Mrs. Bertha Aronson, 35, of Deering road, Dorchester.

Mrs. Aronson, summering on Samoset avenue, Kenberma, is a good swimmer, but was dragged out 100 yards by an undertow and became exhausted.

Those on the beach saw her and called firemen and police.

Several youths tried to swim out to her, but the waves were too much for them.

A boat was launched, but it capsized.

Handrahan, just about to go on duty, was attracted to the beach from his home on Sumner street.

After a long struggle he reached the woman's side and, supporting her with one arm, swam in with the other.

Joe Handrahan played guard for Dartmouth last fall and is a brother of Johnny Handrahan, star halfback.

'SOCK-THRIFTY' TAX BILL GIVEN COMMITTEE O. K.

G. O. P. FIGHTS PASSAGE "BY MONDAY"

By Associated Press

Washington, July 30—The new $276,000,000 tax bill was formally approved today by the House ways and means committee.

Chairman Doughton (D.), North Carolina, hoped to get the measure up on the floor tomorrow. He said that if he failed it would be taken up "Thursday at the latest."

"I hope we can get it passed by Saturday," Doughton added.

"If we don't we certainly can get it through by Monday."

REPUBLICANS TO FIGHT

The bill includes recommendations outlined by President Roosevelt in his message to Congress June 9 advocating a "wider distribution of wealth."

It embodies new taxes on inheritances and gifts, in addition to those already levied on estates and gifts; increases taxes on individual incomes and corporation excess profits and graduated levies on corporation net income.

Indications were that Republican members of the ways and means committee would file a minority report criticising the bill because of the contention it would do nothing worth while toward balancing the budget.

17 TO 7 FOR O. K.

Although less than a dozen committeemen were present when the vote was taken, all but one of the absentees left a proxy.

The resulting vote was 17 to 7, with the Democrats agreeing solidly to approve the bill and the Republicans to oppose it.

The only member not recorded was Representative Lamneck (D.) Ohio, who is ill.

As the bill was reported, Representative Scrugham (D.) Nevada, made public an amendment he will propose to deduct from corporation income money derived from the mining of gold.

Later the House bill's surtax provisions reaching into some brackets lower than recommended by President Roosevelt were questioned by Democratic senators as the Senate finance committee opened hearings.

L. H. Parker, chief of staff of the joint congressional committee on internal revenue taxation, told the committee the bill increased surtaxes beginning at $50,000 while President Roosevelt used the excess of $1,000,000 as "an example" for consideration of raises.

NOT PRESIDENT'S PLAN

"Have you followed the President's recommendations?" asked Senator King (D.), Utah.

Parker, who helped draft the measure, said he followed the recommendations of the House ways and means committee.

"So you construed the President's message to start the increases at $50,000?" asked Chairman Harrison (D.), Mississippi.

"It was the declaration of the committee," Parker said, adding, "of course, no substantial revenue can be obtained by graduating surtaxes from $1,000,000 up. That would only raise about $5,000,000 or $6,000,000."

The questioning developed that the bill also failed to follow suggestions regarding a graduated corporation income tax.

The bill makes the rate 13½ per cent on corporation income not over $15,000 and 14¼ per cent on more than $15,000. The President suggested a range of 10% to 16%.

Regarding surtaxes, Parker said if the President's $1,000,000 "example" were used it would be stepped up surtaxes only on 46 individuals in 1933.

By starting the increases at $50,000, he said 7974 taxpayers would have been affected.

"Minute Women" Fight to Save Thrifty from Tax Sock

Parading from the Old South Meeting House, where they had taken part in the demonstration against the "soak the thrifty" program of President Roosevelt, 30 representatives of the "Minute Women" of Massachusetts petitioned Governor Curley to transmit their resolutions to Washington. The photograph shows the Governor accepting the petition as he received the delegation at his State House office.

Thus the "Minute Women" of 1936, after holding a demonstration in the Old South Meeting House, paraded to the State House, dressed in Colonial garb, some riding in buggies, to have Governor Curley place their resolution against the "soak the thrifty" program before the President. Photo shows the 30 delegates entering the State House where they presented their resolutions.

HITLER CURBING WAR ON JEWS, CATHOLICS

By Associated Press

Berlin, July 30—Seven Jews and six Gentile women were arrested in Halle today for an alleged "violation of racial principles," indicating that, despite attempts from above to curb anti-Semitic activity, it still continues in Germany.

One of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's troubles, for the moment, seems to be getting his petty officials to observe discipline.

It became apparent that local burgomasters and police officials often take steps which exceed their competence.

Thus, the burgomaster of Nurnberg decreed that only the swastika shall be displayed on public buildings, although the Reich government recognizes both the swastika and the black, white and red flag of imperial days as the official colors of Germany.

CARDINAL ORDERS PRAYER

Similarly, the burgomaster of Quedlinburg decreed that Jews may not enter local museums or cathedrals.

As this ban is directed against all Jews, even those of foreign nationality, the decree flies in the face of federal orders to treat foreigners courteously.

Cardinal Bertram issued orders to the churches in his diocese to have the following prayer said after each mass:

"Let us pray for the peace and freedom of our whole church, especially within our Fatherland."

The Nazis put out a police communique from Recklinghausen, which said that ten lay brothers of the congregation of "the Brothers of Mercy" had been arrested at "Maria Lindenhof," a home for feebleminded and epileptic boys, on charges of improper practices.

The communique intimated that four additional institutions of the congregation will be similarly charged.

HITLER CURBS WAR

However, there was a general feeling that an obvious effort was being made by high authorities of the Reich to put the brakes on ultra-radical activities.

Fundamentally, the Nazi policy is directed at eliminating Jews altogether from Germany and smashing "political Catholicism" as well as every other form of political opposition.

Whenever foreign opinion becomes antagonistic to the extent that Germany's foreign policy seems in danger, Hitler and other leaders attempt to curb the sphere of action of the less responsible subleaders.

U. S. Expects Formal Protest From Nazi

By Associated Press

Washington, July 30—Official quarters indicated today that a protest from the German embassy over the stripping of the Nazi swastika from the liner Bremen in New York harbor is expected soon.

Cognizance of the act by anti-Nazis last Saturday was expected to be taken by the Wilhelmstrasse notwithstanding an informal expression of regret on the part of a state department official.

It was indicated the Nazi government feels the incident requires a formal apology.

La Guardia Stands Pat On Nazi License Edict

By Associated Press

New York, July 30—Mayor La-Guardia reasserted today that German aliens seeking specialists' licenses under the commercial treaty of 1925 are not entitled to them.

He recently refused a masseur's license to Paul Kress, exciting near-official criticism in Germany. The mayor argued that Jewish-American residents in Germany had been discriminated against, voiding the treaty.

JOB PERIL SEEN IN TAX BOOST

Los Angeles, July 30—Appeals to California's Senators and Los Angeles County members of the House of Representatives to consider the deadly effect of pyramiding still further the tax burden on the thrifty, discouraging industry and business, and tending to create still further unemployment were wired by southern California leaders.

The commercial board of Los Angeles sent telegrams of protest to the members of the California delegation and to Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the House Ways and Means committee. This organization went on record strongly against the "soak-the-thrifty" program which has just been approved by the House Ways and Means committee.

old daughter of the man he killed. She is poor and will accept.

Atonement by payment is almost as old as murder. There are still countries in which crime may be paid for, in cash, the amount depending on the rank of the person murdered.

Chicago is seriously afflicted with counterfeiters, and secret service men say that putting Capone in jail stimulated the counterfeit racket. What Capone said "went" in his days of power, and while he was underworld boss in Chicago he forbade counterfeiting because "I don't want this town to have a bad name." He did not want counterfeiters to attract government agents that might interfere with his "honest beer racket."

To investigate the crime world is like looking into one of those little Japanese eggs. You take off one cover, then another, and there is always another inside.

The Associated Press says a saloon in Dallas, Texas, advertises "Sixty cents an hour for beer drinking." You pay one cent a minute and may have as much beer as you can drink in sixty minutes for sixty cents. What line would you add to that statement?

Defending the Constitution

THE New York Times prints the following letter from a correspondent:

To the Editor of the New York Times:

The following seems to me to be of more than passing interest:

Franklin D. Roosevelt to Chief Justice Hughes and the world at large, March 4, 1932:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Franklin D. Roosevelt in a letter to Representative Sam B. Hill, July 6, 1925:

"Manifestly no one is in a position to give assurance that the proposed act will withstand constitutional tests. . . . I hope your committee will not permit doubts as to constitutionality, however, reasonable, to block the suggested legislation.

KNOWS HIS QUAKES

Amateur Gets New Test Today

By Universal Service

New York, July 30—Earthquake Forecaster Reuben Greenspan has called another seismic disturbance. This one happened 7500 miles away and right at the same moment that the amateur prognosticator predicted it.

Professional quake experts sat up late last night and listened as a seismograph began to register. Georgetown University and University of Southern California savants estimated that an earthquake had mildly shaken the Fiji Islands.

That was another victory for Greenspan. For five days ago, that young man, aided by a toy balloon-size globe of the world and a tencent compass, had predicted the Fiji Island earthquake.

This victory is merely a preliminary to the big test today. Some time in the next 24 hours, says Greenspan, there will be a severe disturbance in Turkey, Persia, Western India, and Northern Africa.

The mild Fiji Island tremors, he explained, were caused by a flirtation between the moon and the planet Mercury. Today the moon and the sun will wreak havoc with that part of the earth known to seismologists as the "great Mediterranean crustal fault."

Greenspan has so far been betting a thousand per cent on earthquakes and a little less on their location. He said today that he had accepted a position with an eastern university, which carries with it sufficient laboratory facilities to carry on his work.

Ex-Senator Gillett Reported Dying

Springfield, July 30—Former Senator Frederick Huntington Gillett, 83, was reported "unchanged since last night" at the Springfield Hospital today.

Doctors James A. Seaman and George L. Steele, attending physicians, were reported to have abandoned all hope for his recovery, and did not expect him to live more than another 24 hours.

A Republican, Gillett served for 32 years in the House of Representatives in Washington, resigning the speakership in 1924 to become Senator from Massachusetts. He retired in 1931.

Two Dying After Crash in Natick

Albert D. Farnham, 23, of Fruit street, and Earl R. Fuller, 27, of Neptune road, Worcester, are dying today at Leonard Morse Hospital Natick, as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

Their automobile operated, police said, by Farnham struck reservation in the center of Worcester street, literally spun about several times, snapped off a telephone pole and threw out the occupants.

Witness said the victims were thrown nearly 100 feet.

Holyoke, July 30—An automobile hit a dog; the dog bit a man, so the man is suing the driver of the machine for $1000.

'Minute Women' Rally to Fight 'Sock Thrifty' Tax

The hand that rocks the cradle may be the hand that will upset President Roosevelt's proposed taxation plan of "sock the thrifty." This prediction was made today by Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell of Winchester, one of the founders of the "Minute Women of 1936" organization.

Mrs. Blaisdell, in a plea against President Roosevelt's wealth distribution program, asked that every woman in Massachusetts send a postcard to the President and their Congressmen protesting the plan.

Mrs. Blaisdell said:

"The time has arrived when the women of Massachusetts should rally forces and publicly oppose the President's "sock the thrift" plan.

"Already a woman's organization known as the "Minute Women of 1936," has been formed and they are ready to wage a fight against "taxation without representation."

"We should view with concern the encroachment of the Federal government upon the rights and liberties guaranteed us under the constitution of the United States.

"We should view with concern the unwarranted waste of the savings of the thrifty upon unsound experiments, which have yet failed to bring relief and prosperity to the nation.

"The spirit of 1935 is akin to that of 1776 which rebelled against 'taxation without representation.'

"This fight is of interest to every citizen of the United States regardless of class, creed or color. The future of this nation hinges on its outcome.

"Every woman in this state can do her part to aid by sending a postcard to the President protesting against his taxation plan.

"She should then get five other women to do likewise and the same rule followed through. In this manner a 'chain postcard' would be initiated."

While Mrs. Blaisdell was making her plea to the women, resolutions adopted by the Minute Women at a session held in Old South Meeting House yesterday, were being delivered to the White House.

The resolution compared present conditions with that of 1775. The resolution charges the administration with "taxation without representation," confiscation" and "unwarranted waste."

The resolution was forwarded to the state's delegation.

The petition was presented formally to Governor Curley and taken by one of the chief executive's special messengers to Washington.

Other members of the Minute Women's organization include Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Mrs. Ernestine M. Tillinghast, Mrs. J. Hasbrouck LeFevre, Miss Margaret MacGill, Mrs. J. A. McCord, Mrs. Samuel M. Tarbell, Mrs. Duncan MacDonald, Mrs. L. W. Buxton, Mrs. Mary T. Rollins and Mrs. Thomas V. Nash.

COAST STATES PROTEST TAX

By Universal Service

Seattle, Wash., July 30—To the rising tide of protest against the Administration's "soak-the-thrifty" tax plan was added today a resolution passed by the Tax Sanity League of Washington, denouncing the measure as an added hurdle on the road to economic recovery.

W. W. Conner, the league's president, who is a former Lieutenant-Governor and Washington State Senator declared his organization is not opposed to taxes for essential and proper functions of government, but that it resents the lavish spending of the people's money to further political ends.

U. S. May Join War on Reds

FEDERAL AID SOUGHT IN LABOR PURGE

By KENNETH T. DOWNS

International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1935, by International News Service)

New York, July 30—A drastic "purge" of the Communist-infested ranks of labor in the strife-torn Pacific Coast shipping industries was forecast today by Elisha Hanson, counsel for western shipping interests, upon his arrival from Washington where the simmering waterfront war is being brought to a showdown.

HANSON PREDICTED THAT FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THE ECONOMIC HISTORY OF THE NATION, THE GOVERNMENT, THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR AND AN INDUSTRY WILL JOIN HANDS TO DRIVE OUT TROUBLE-MAKING COMMUNISTS AND BAR THEM FROM PAYROLLS.

"I believe there will be united efforts for a purge of Communists," Hanson said.

"It may mean a hell of a scrap for a while, but I assured the conference last night, in behalf of the ship owners, that the owners will deal with the A. F. of L., and A. F. of L., only, if its leadership is capable of carrying out its commitments."

Communists, who have long concentrated on American maritime and waterfront workers, claim control of 40 per cent of the labor in Pacific coast shipping industries, Hanson said. Other estimates say they constitute only 75 or 80 per cent.

It is conceded on all sides their influence is great on the coast and the Reds are blamed for the 125 flagrant violations of contracts entered between labor and industry after the San Francisco general strike last year.

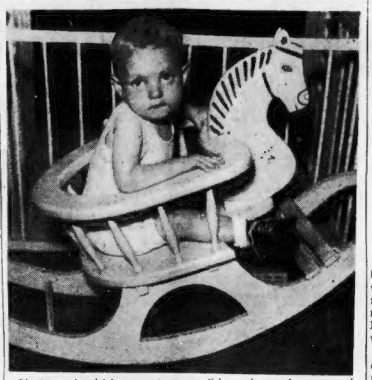
At present, despite provisions against strikes in the contracts, one ship, the Point Clear, is tied up in San Francisco harbor, and three are stranded in Vancouver, as a result of labor troubles.

This was the immediate cause of the conference last night in the Department of Labor Building, Washington, attended by representatives of he government, the ship owners, the A. F. of L. and the two principal Pacific waterfront unions, the International Longshoremen's Association and the International Seamen's Union.

Hanson issued a long statement to the meeting, in which he said radical elements had flaunted authority of the recognized labor leaders and repeatedly broke agreements entered into last year by the owners, labor and the government.

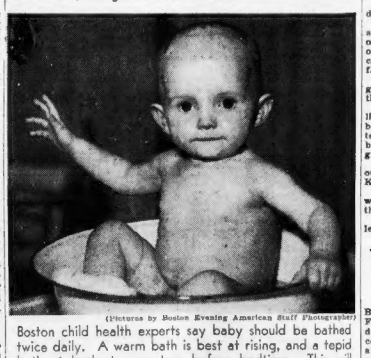
KEEPING BABY COOL

Two Daily Baths Best



Clothing should be scant as possible and very loose, and changed at least daily. It won't interfere with the child's natural play. For active periods a playsuit or sunsuit is best. Let the child alone, and give him plenty of space.

Of course, lot of milk is good for youngsters. It gives them strength. It allows normal growth of their bones. Now, here's a baby that doesn't have to be led to milk. He likes it, and goes after it himself.



(Pictures by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer)

Boston child health experts say baby should be bathed twice daily. A warm bath is best at rising, and a tepid bath at body temperature before bedtime. This will keep the baby cool and comfortable during the hot summery days.

IF BABY'S FRETFUL

He's Hot, So Try These Things

Does the baby cry excessively on hot days?
Maybe you're not giving it a chance to keep cool and happy!

Boston Children's Hospital authorities say it's easy to keep small children comfortable—and healthy—if you only—

Bathe them twice a day; a warm bath when they wake up, and a tepid bath, about body temperature, when they go to bed.

Remember a "night's rest" for the baby is about 13 hours, from 6 p. m. to 7 a. m.

Put them to sleep where mosquitoes cannot get at them—ordinary mosquito netting will do the trick—and cover them lightly.

Dress them as scantily as possible—and always very loosely, with clothing changed at least every day.

For the littlest, diapers and a sleeveless shirt. For the older ones playsuits.

Don't give a child ayecis or lollipops on hot days.

Give youngsters plenty of chance to play in a cool spot—by themselves—and with plenty of space—and air.

With these few simple rules, the child experts say, any baby will grow healthily, and happily — let the weather "cut up" all it pleases.

'SHOT Girl for LOVE'

WOOER BALKS IN SUICIDE

Arrested today for the shooting of Mrs. Irene Roux, 24, in Roxbury, Pasquale Gidarri, 24, of Prospect street, Cambridge, according to police, said he did it for love.

The woman, who has a husband and two children in Salem, was shot three times and seriously wounded in the apartment of Dr. Samuel Fine, 534 Blue Hill avenue, where she worked as a maid.

Gidarri was arrested at the Psychopathic Hospital, where he applied for treatment for a self-inflicted bullet wound in his head.

PLANNED SUICIDE, TOO

After several hours of grilling, he allegedly said:

"I'm sorry I shot her.

"I didn't know any other way to keep her love.

"I intended to kill her and myself, too, but I lost my nerve."

A search of Gidarri's room revealed a letter from a lawyer representing the woman's husband, Henry Roux, warning Gidarri to keep away from her.

"That letter made me mad," said Gidarri, according to police.

Police said Mrs. Roux was heard to scream, just before the shots were fired:

"Didn't I tell you I wasn't going to have anything more to do with you."

GUN IN BLOOD

Gidarri allegedly replied:

"I'll have you, anyway."

The authorities believe that a reconciliation between husband and wife was about to take place.

The man fled. A .38 caliber pistol was found beside the girl, and police say it bore Gidarri's fingerprints.

A trail of blood led to where he had evidently parked his car.

CHIEFS SEEK NEW LEADER

By Associated Press

Washington, July 30—Signs of Republican activity looking to 1936 multiplied today as one prominent party member declared there can be "no compromise" with the New Deal and another accused it of seeking to "pervert or subvert the Constitution."

Calling on Republicans to nominate an "upstanding conservative" from the Middle West for President, Senator Hastings (R), Delaware, declared:

"There can be no compromise with the New Deal. The only way the Republican party can save itself as a party is to stick to well known American principles."

PARTY LINES LIFTED

Henry P. Fletcher, national chairman of the party, was the man who raised the constitutional issue. In a radio speech, he invited citizens of all political faiths to "help meet the challenge" and said the presidential race would "transcend mere party lines."

"The constitutional barriers to 'planned economy' are to be removed," said Fletcher. "Why? Because they stand in the way of a centralized, socialistic state, governed without restraint or limit, by a President and a subservient Congress."

Recalling President Roosevelt described the Constitution a year ago as "resilient," Fletcher said:

"Now that it is shown that it can not be stretched to cover the socialistic policies of the New Deal, the issue becomes clear. Either the Constitution must give way to the New Deal, or the New Deal must give way to the Constitution."

WON'T COMPROMISE

Hastings said:

"When you begin to compromise with the New Deal you begin to compromise with radicalism and leave the substantial conservatives no place to go.

"The nominee should be from the Middle West. A candidate from the East hasn't as good a chance as a Middle Westerner.

"There is a prejudice against the East. The best thing the East can do is to take a man from the West who is not prejudiced against the East."

Knox Forecasts G. O. P. Victory for 1936

By Associated Press

San Francisco, July 30—A Republican President in 1937 was the prediction left with California G. O. P. leaders today by Colonel Frank Knox.

Latest of prominent Republicans to visit former President Herbert Hoover, Colonel Knox declared a Republican President would take office in 1937 on a platform opposed to "planned economy."

Key issues of the next campaign, he said, would be "defense of the Constitution, a balanced budget, stabilized currency and a "sound" farm policy.

Torso Death Horror Told By Dancer

By International News Service.

Chicago, July 30—"Sure I killed him."

Thus Mrs. Evelyn Smith, 43-year-old former honky-tonk dancer, nonchalantly confessed the gruesome torso murder of Ervin J. Lang early today.

Her only motive, police said she admitted, was $500 promised but unpaid.

The thin, acquiline-faced dancer, who when she was arrested by New York police Saturday, denied any knowledge of the murder and said she was anxious to return here and face Mrs. Dunkel, finally broke, declaring:

"Oh, well. I might as well get it over with.

"Sure, I killed him."

Then she launched into her awful tale; told how she lured the unsuspecting young man to her apartment, piled him with liquor till he fell asleep, and then strangled him with a length of rope, authorities said.

Denying she had been aided in the crime, Mrs. Smith said:

"No, Mrs. Dunkel wasn't in the apartment. She said she couldn't bear to see Ervin killed, and then went away."

She also denied her Chinese husband, Harry Jung, a fugitive, aided her, saying:

"He was sitting in an auto outside, scared half to death."

Calmly, placidly, exhaling clouds of cigarette smoke, Evelyn told how she severed the legs from Lang's body.

She stuffed the severed legs into her trunk, Mrs. Smith told her questioners, wrapped a blanket around the torso, and prevailed upon Jung to help her carry the gruesome burdens to an automobile they had borrowed from a Chinese friend.

U. S. Checks Up on Soviet Pledge to Bar Propaganda

By International News Service

Washington, July 30—American Ambassador William C. Bullitt at Moscow has been notified by the state department of this government's concern over activities of the Third Communist Internationale Congress with respect to the United States, it was learned today.

Bullitt has not yet been instructed to lodge any protest, but the department informed him it expects him to watch the proceedings closely and cable full reports on action which might tend to be in conflict with the Soviet government's promise to this nation to prohibit propaganda against this country.

The state department move to check up on the Soviet pledges was prompted by submission of a report to the Third Internationale Congress directing the American Communist Party to stir up dissension among workers in this country as well as by open propaganda aimed at the United States.

Cite Soviet Pledge

The Soviet government, in ont of the main agreements on which American recognition of the Soviet regime was based, made a solemn promise to "prevent the activities of its territory of any organization or group which has as an aim the overthrow of or the bringing about by force any change in the political or social order the whole or any part of the United States."

If a study of the reports being cabled by Ambassador Bullitt leads officials here to believe the activities of the Third Internationale Congress are in conflict with the Soviet government's pledges the state department is ligely to lodge a formal protest with Moscow.

However, indications were the state department would wait until the Congress had concluded its session before taking any action.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Bullitt was watching the situation closely and keeping the department informed.

Boston Model Last In Yacht Trials

Fleetwood, Eng., July 30 (AP)—William George Bithell of Boston faced tremendous odds today in his attempt to bring his yacht, Yankee II, out of last place in the international model yachting championships here.

On the first day of the championships yesterday the American yacht scored only nine points out of a possible 45. The leader is the British yacht Naiad, owned by Colonel W. C. Holden of London, and is followed in turn by representatives of Norway, France, Germany and the United States.

The championships continue through Wednesday.

Bandit Raids Lynn Office, Gets $250

A masked gunman held up the Lynn Credit Union at 191 Summer street, Lynn, today, choking and beating Abraham Waldman, secretary, and escaping with $250. Waldman's watch was also taken.

Although only one man figured in the actual holdup, witnesses told police four men fled in a car that raced toward Revere.

Waldman was alone when the holdup happened. He told police the gunman wore a handkerchief mask. After being punched and choked, the secretary was forced to sit in a chair by the wall while the gunman ransacked the office.

The robber took only cash, passing up a number of checks.

Nightshirt Thumber Is Corralled

Quick thinking on the part of a motorist today saved Back Bay a lot of embarrassment.

Stopping his car at the red light at Brookline avenue and the Riverway, H. P. Baker of Newbury street was joined by a man dressed in a nightshirt, bathrobe and slippers.

"Drive away," said the man.

Baker drove away. He pulled up at the Back Bay police station and turned his uninvited passenger over to an officer.

The night-clothed man was returned to the Boston Psychopatric Hospital on Fenwood road.

FATHER OF 22 Jailed, Non-Support

Portland, Me., July 30—John H. Whitlock, 47-year-old antique dealer, was sent to jail today for a period equal to two weeks for every one of his children.

He'll be out in eleven months!

Whitlock is the father of 32 children, 14 of whom are living, and four of whom are minors.

He went to jail when he refused to pay the $25 a week ordered by the court, to his wife, Mary.

U. S. RESTS CASE Against Schultz

Malone, N. Y., July 30 (AP)—The government rested its income tax evasion case against Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer today after Rocco di Larmi, Schultz henchman, was sentenced to six months in jail for refusing to testify.

Baby Born After Mother Dies, Lives

New York, July 30—Death sometimes waits on life. And sometimes the miracle of life is superimposed on the tragedy of death.

In St. Clare's Hospital conducted by nuns of the Franciscan Order, an example was set.

Fifteen minutes after she had died, her baby was born.

A physician in street clothes, summoned to assist at this miracle of life coming from death, worked over the tiny form with frantic concentration to fan the feeble flame into being.

Beside him, working with him, giving all aid possible, stood one of the Franciscan nuns.

Today, while little flame of new life was burning brightly. The baby lives. While the loyal Sisters tended it carefully, the mother was being lowered to final rest in her grave.

The mother who gave posthumous birth to a son was Mrs. Nancy Keit, 41, of 122 East 95th street.

She was past the age of most women who become mothers, and this was to be her first born.

"LOVE SLAYER" POISON PLOT IS FEARED

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Worcester, July 30—All mail, whether by letter or package, and all other personal deliveries of any description, are from now on barred from Newell P. Sherman.

The "American Tragedy" prisoner, accused of slaying his wife, Alice Dudley Sherman, will have no opportunity to receive poison while he awaits trial, the sheriff's office said today.

Plans for the indictment of the 26-year-old man sped forward as the state was winding up loose ends of the case.

Officials scoffed at stories that a "woman in white" was being sought by them, or that a former school teacher of Sherman was to be questioned.

They said there was no "woman in white" involved on the night Mrs. Sherman was drowned.

SPEED INDICTMENT

They said that the school teacher hinted at had not seen Sherman since five years ago and that she is now living in Peabody.

The district attorney's office and state police are mostly concerned in getting the Sherman case to the grand jury immediately after it convenes, it was said.

Officials hope to give the "American Tragedy" evidence priority. The Worcester County grand jury convenes at Fitchburg on August 13.

Out of Worcester County jail came reports today that Sherman was crying for the privilege of facing Miss Esther Magill.

She, according to his "confession," was his motive for slaying his wife. This girl is 17. The wife was 22.

CHECK ALL PARCELS

Sherman, it was said, has strenuously denied that he ever talked to Miss Magill about "getting rid of his wife" so that he might wed the younger girl.

Miss Magill, according to the district-attorney's office and police, had reiterated that she had had nothing to do with the man romantically.

On the other hand, she has been quoted as telling the assistant district-attorney, Alfred B. Cenedella, and several other persons of Sherman's alleged threats.

This attitude of Sherman, plus the depression of the man reported by jail guards, has caused the "poison" possibility plot precautions.

All his mail is opened and read, officials report. All parcels received by him are carefully checked —to their very insides.

It was pointed out today that a queer, coincidental strain had similarised both Sherman's wedding and widowerhood.

HUNT FOR SHOES

He was to have been married at 7 p. m., a night in the spring of 1933, but he didn't get married at that time.

He had to attend a choir rehearsal, it was told state police. So he didn't get married until 10:30 p. m.

State police charge that the night Sherman pushed his wife to death from a canoe into the waters of Lake Singletary, the same thing probably occurred.

At least, Sherman had to attend a choir rehearsal and he did. Mrs. Sherman ended her life as his wife approximately at 10:30 p. m.

Police are said to be still searching for Sherman's shoes, supposed to be sunken on Lake Singletary's bottom.

State Detective Edward J. McCarthy is quoted as saying that if the shoes are found unlaced it will be evidence for the state.

If, on the other hand, the shoes are found to have torn or tangled laces, Sherman's explanation of his wife's death may be helped, it was said.

Ford, 72, Quietly Marks Birthday

By Associated Press.

Big Bay, Mich., July 30—Henry Ford was 72 years old today.

The founder or one of the world's greatest industrial empires observed the birthday anniversary at his "cottage," a 16-room affair, in the Huron Mountain Club grounds on the shore of Lake Superior.

With Mrs. Ford, the motor magnate came here aboard one of his freighters several days ago for his annual vacation.

He timed it to coincide with the period during which his assembly plants throughout the country would be closed for a fortnight.

A bill authorizing construction of a new Suffolk courthouse when money is available from the federal government was passed to be engrossed in the Senate today without debate. The measure was then sent to the House.

Sherman Sanity

Tested by State Doctors

NEW QUESTIONS

The fate of Newell P. Sherman was literally in the hands of three state-appointed psychiatrists today. If they declare him insane he escapes all threat of the death chair. The Boston Evening American has obtained exclusively the complete mental test in which Sherman will be subjected if he is indicted. Also the program that is pursued to determine his sanity.

Copyright, 1935, by Boston Evening American

In determining the sanity of Newell P. Sherman, self confessed wife-slayer, the alienist have five important reactions they must oberve closely as they question him in his jail cell.

They must observe his attitude and general behavior as they put their questions to him.

They must observe his stream of mental activity, or his alertness in understanding the questions put to him and his speed in making answer to them.

They must study his emotional reaction, his affect and mood as they discuss with him his first sin murder.

And finally his mental grasp and mental capacity.

Here are the first of the many questions Sherman must answer.

Newell Sherman

Where were you born?

Give up the date of your birth. How old does that make you now? Give us your age in years, months and days.

Where and how long did you go to school? What was the highest grade you completed?

When did you begin work?

Give the name and address of your first employer.

Give us the name and address of any other employers.

When were you married? How old were you then?

Give us the names of your children?

Where were you last employed?

In what hospital have you been treated and for what ailment?

What is your father's name? Is he alive? Where was your father born? How old is he?

How old are your children? Where do you live? Give the street and number.

Who do you live with? Give the names of everybody in the house and their ages.

How long have you lived there? How long have the others lived there? When did you leave home? Where did you go?

Who went with you? What did the person with you talk about? What did you talk about?

How did you get here to this jail? How did you travel here? Who came with you? Why are you here?

Where were you on July 16, 19, 17 and 20? Where were you yesterday, and tell us what you did and talked about?

How many meals have you had today? How many meals did you have yesterday?

Tell us the name of a person who has been mentioned and what was said about that person as you remember it?

The alienists holding a piece of cloth will ask, What color is this?

They will show Sherman an object, such as a ring, and ask, What is this?

Preliminary questioning suspended temporarily, the alienists will then proceed to test Sherman as to his retention and immediate recall powers.

He will first be shown a watch and asked to remember what time it was when he looked at it.

Then he will be asked to repeat immediately and as quickly as possible the following digits:

4—6—9—2	7—3—8—4—6—9—2
5—3—8—1—7	8—2—9—6—4—7—1—5
2—9—6—8—3	3—5—1—7—4—6—9—2—8

Completing the numeral test Sherman will then be given a piece of paper to test his ability to carry out orders of the alienist.

He will be told to do the following:

Tear this piece of paper into three pieces.

Take the largest piece of paper and throw it away.

Put the smallest piece of paper in your pocket.

Give us the middle-sized piece.

The alienists will say: Now we are going to give you two words and please repeat them together after we have given them to you.

Head—hair	Window—door
Room—hall	Book—pencil
Chair—table	Lake—river
Grass—tree	Apple—pear
White—red	Pipe—tobacco

Tomorrow the Boston Evening American will publish the apparently simple mathematics test given by alienists. How many of these problems can you answer?

SHERMAN TEARS FAIL TO MOVE MISS BLACK

By WINIFRED BLACK

Newell Paige Sherman. Fine, high sounding name, isn't it? Choir leader, scout leader, and head of a dear little family. The story begins all right, doesn't it But it's all wrong, that story all hideously wrong.

Newell Paige Sherman had a young wife and two little children, but he fell in love with a girl of 17 and his wife was in the way; so he took his wife out in a canoe and drowned her.

He tipped the canoe over first, and then when his wife tried to struggle back he pushed her away and swam far enough off so he could be sure she was really dead before he went ashore and pretended to call for help.

Great big strapping fellow, six feet four inches, and his wife was a little delicate woman weighing 120 pounds.

Newell Paige Sherman says that he stopped to look at his two beautiful children before he went out to murder his wife. Now wasn't that touching of him?

He cried about it when he told the story and said he was sorry he had murdered his wife. Nice of him, wasn't it?

What a lovely text he is giving for all the sob sisters and the Sentimental Tommies — we'll begin to hear sermons on that text from all the dreamy eyed theorists in the country now.

What, punish a man for what was clearly nothing but an attack of love madness? How uncivilized, how unreasonable, how brutally cruel. That's what the sentimentalists will say and we'll sit by and listen to them without an instant's protest.

RETTICH, AIDES START TRIP TO ATLANTA

Ringed by federal machine guns, five members of the Rettich mail robbery gang started South from Boston today to start sentences of 25 years in Atlanta penitentiary.

Guarded by no less than 30 deputy marshals and policemen, armed with machine guns, rifles, shotguns and tear gas, the gangsters were whisked across the city and taken aboard a noon train.

At Third and Thorndike streets, Cambridge, outside the jail, a young woman wept as the prisoners entered an armored truck.

As Joseph Fisher, Providence Public Enemy No. 1, was taken to the truck steps, shee cried:

"Joe! Joe! Say goodby to me, Joe!"

He appeared not to hear her.

"Goodby, Joe!" she called again.

He turned his head and saw her.

"Goodby, May!" he said.

A photographer snapped her picture and she chased him. She left the scene in a Dhode Island car, accompanied by an elderly woman.

Fisher's father and sister were visiting him in the jail when the officers arrived.

They were required to wait in the jail until he had been taken away.

With Fisher went Carl Rettich, Warwick, R. I., gang chieftan, and the three New York machine gunners, Charles Harrigan, John McGlone and Tommy Dugan.

Herbert H. Hornstein, sixth member of the gang who turned government witness to convict them of the $129,000 Fall River mail holdup, is still held at Plymouth jail, guarded against gangland vengeance, his case undisposed of.

SENATE OKAYS TAUNTON DOGS

The Senate today adopted an amendment to the racing law which would legalize the Taunton dog track in spite of opposition to the track by the town authorities.

The track is actually in the town of Dighton, where the selectmen have obtained a decision against the track. The track is, however, in operation pending a Supreme Court decision.

The new amendment states that any track which received a license from the State Racing Commission prior to July 1, 1935, shall not need a permit from local authorities.

Sen. Edward C. Carroll of South Boston, who introduced the amendment, said the Taunton promoters had invested a large amount of money believing they could operate legally, and their investment should be protected.

Sen. George Moise of Waltham said the track had already paid the State $55,000 in taxes.

The amendment passed on a voice vote. Henry Parkman, Boston, and John Mackay, Quincy, spoke against it.

LYNN MOTHER, SON VANISH

Mystery surrounds the case of a mother and son found asleep early today on Lynn Beach and now missing from the Lynn City Home, where Metropolitan police took them.

They told police they were Mrs. Olive Delano, 54, and Fred Delano, 27. They said they had been evicted from their home in Adams court, Lynn, after Fred lost his job and their funds were used up.

After Metropolitan police took them to the city home they presumably went to bed. This morning they had disappeared.

7 OUT OF 8 DIE
In 75-Foot Plunge

Fredolna, Ariz., July 30—Seven persons were killed by the plunge of a motor car from the Housecrock Hill highway, 75 feet into a canyon.

Reports received here indicated only one of the party of eight in the machine survived.

BOY MOTORISTS HELD IN CRASH

Two youths, who were fleeing in an automobile after knocking down a pedestrian and later struck an El upright, were captured by police at gunpoint this morning.

Police first became aware of their activities when Thomas G. Brady, 23, of Blake street, Mattapan, was brought to City Hospital after having been struck by a hit and run autoist.

That accident occurred on Huntington avenue, near Irvington street, Back Bay.

The South Boston policemen noticed them on B street driving in a car, the plates of which had been reported stolen.

They chased them into Thompson square, Charlestown, where the fleeing auto crashed into an elevated upright. The youths leaped from the wrecked car and tried to escape on foot.

The patrolmen fired several shots and finally halted them.

The captured youths gave there names as Charles F. Coughlin, 17, and James L. Lynch, both of South Boston.

The automobile, the property of Gertrude Lindstrom, of Beach street, Belmont, was reported stolen from Clearway street, Back Bay.

HURLEY LOBBY FEE BARED; MAN HUNT ON FOR HOPSON

By Associated Press

Washington, July 30—The Senate lobby committee today threatened to arm every United States marshal and federal agent with subpoenas for H. C. Hopson, dominant figure in the Associated Gas & Electric System.

Earlier, the committee received evidence that the Associated System had spent $701,000 opposing the utility bill, including a $25,000 fee to the law firm of Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war in the Hoover administration.

The threat was issued by Chairman Black as Fred S. Burrough, $60,000 a year vice president, testified again that he did not know Hopson's whereabouts.

BLACK MAKES THREAT

"It would be impossible that a man could be in the United States and not know that the committee wanted Mr. Hopson," Black said, referring to the wide-spread publicity given the committee's search for the official.

"I agree," Burroughs replied.

"Somebody can get in touch with him," Black said sharply. "If we don't get in touch with him we are going to turn over a subpoena to every marshal and every other agents of the government."

Black added that there were some questions that only Hopson could answer, adding emphatically "we want him here."

"It puzzles me," Burroughs replied. "I can't understand why he doesn't come, because there is nothing to hide."

Burroughs protested that the committee agents had not at first attempted to serve a subpoena on Hopson, but had merely asked to see him.

FRAISED HEARST STAND

The vice president said he could give any information that Hopson could, but when Black asked if the latter had any contact with newspaper publishers or writers, Burroughs agreed he could not answer.

He testified, however, that he knew Hopson had sent a telegram to William Randolph Hearst congratulating him for his stand "on the administration attacks on all big business."

The expenditure figures were presented to the committee from a list of the A. G. E. system's expenditures drawn up by company officials and committee investigators.

Previously, company officials had asserted the expenditures against the bill were $700,000.

Senator Schwellenbach (D.), Washington, emphasized the payment to Hurley.

HURLEY'S BIG FEE

"He is the man who is so outraged about what the government is doing, isn't he?" Schwellenbach asked.

"I don't know; I'm not Mr. Hurley's brother," O. E. Wasser, comptroller of the system, who was testifying, replied tartly.

"If you got $25,000 you could be outraged against legislation, couldn't you?" Schwellenbach asked. "You could put on a pretty good show, couldn't you?"

Over and over again the head of the treasury department of the Associated Gas & Electric told the committee "I don't know" in reply to questions about the organization of his group.

Frank E. Martin said he did not know the system's total assets or total outstanding indebtedness.

Martin said he drew $175 a month as head of the system's treasury department, but added he had nothing to do with its financing.

EPIDEMIC HITS More in Mine Area

Windber, Pa., July 30 (AP)—More victims of the strange malady, resembling sleeping sickness, which caused one death in this mining community were under treatment today.

Dr. W. F. Fetcho, medical director, asserted several cases were reported to him in addition to 30 treated yesterday.

Dr. W. S. Wheeling and Dr. H. A. Siessinger yesterday dianosed the ailment as a form of encephalitis, manifesting symptoms of sleeping sickness and infantile paralysis.

Quincy Rider Hurt

Paul Hill, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, Farrington st., Wollaston, is in City Hospital, Quincy, with serious injuries suffered when he was thrown from a horse.

New Vote Asked On Surtax Bill

Reconsideration of the vote whereby the Senate rejectd the bill calling for a 10 per cent surtax on income, corporation and inheritance taxes was moved today in the Senate by Senator Thomas M. Burke of Boston.

Burke declared the additional revenue, estimated at $2,750,000, would come from those best able to afford it, and that unless the bill was revived and passed home owners would be saddled with this additional burden through an increase in the state tax.

Because of the decision to debate today on the big $20,800,000 work and wages bond issues, sponsored by Governor Curley, the question of reconsideration was placed at the end of the calendar.

George Curley Under Knife

George Curley, 13, second youngest of Governor Curley's sons, was operated on for appendicitis at Brooks Hospital, Corey Hill, Brookline, today.

Because his eldest son, James, Jr., died shortl after an operation, the governor anxiously awaited the outcome in c room at the hospital.

He announced later that the operation, performed by Dr. Archie Fraser, assisted by his brother, Dr. John Fraser, was highly successful. Dr. Martin J. English administered the anaesthetic.

PWA FRAUD SIFT OPENED HERE

A Boston contractor and an assistant, whose names were not disclosed, were in conference with Assistant United States Attorney Arthur J. B. Cartier in the federal building today.

Cartier has been assigned by United States Attorney Francis J. W. Ford to handle the alleged PWA payroll frauds on projects in Boston and suburbs and in Worcester and Townsend.

The grand jury was engaged on the same floor in listening to Assistant United States Attorney Charles W. Bartlett and witnesses in the probe being made of the Polymet stock sales.

Seven investigators from Washington have been prying into the PWA payrolls and the purchase of supplies. They have completed a voluminous report to be submitted to the grand jury this week.

DRAWN GUNS Halt Thief Suspect

Providence, July 30—After a chase through two department stores and for three blocks along downtown streets, an 18-year-old boy was arrested at gunpoint on the steps of city hall today as a suspected thief.

Police said he had jewelry in his pockets. He ran as two detectives approached. Six traffic policemen joined the chase.

ABIE AND ROSE FIGHT

Judge Leaves It to Priest, Rabbi

By Associated Press

New York, July 30—Justice Meier Steinbrink faces the Solomon-like duty of deciding the religion of the issue of Abie and his Irish Rose.

Before him yesterday appeared Jacob and Helen Miller, Jacob Jewish, Helen Catholic, with their six weeks' old son, Robert.

Robert was there on the habeas corpus action of his father, who claimed his wife promised their babies would be brought up in the Jewish faith.

The couple were married twice, once by a priest, again by a rabbi.

The mother claims the father promised, when the priest married them, their babies would be reared in the Catholic faith.

The father asserted the promise they should be Jewish was made when the rabbi functioned.

Justice Steinbrink didn't decide. He ordered the couple to appear again Thursday and bring the priest and the rabbi.

NEGRO JURORS End N. C. Ban

Greensboro, N. C., July 30 (AP)—David Gunn and John Gilmer, negroes, were serving on the Guilford county grand jury today—first time in modern history that negroes have served on juries here.

They were drawn yesterday and were the only negroes included in a list of 48.

New Housing Plan For So. Boston

Federal officials at Washington today announced abandonment of the government's $3,000,00 low rent housing project in South Boston.

Another plan for South Boston is being considered.

Under the proposed plan, the government would buy vacant land for the model low cost homes instead of tearing down dwellings over an area of eight blocks.

Announcement of the abandonment condemnation proceedings was made by the housing division of the public works administration.

Officials here, including Andrew H. Peterson, the local director, and James J. Sullivan, legal adviser, had no knowledge of it.

The U. S. circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati earlier this month declared it was unconstitutional for the federal government to acquire land by condemnation proceedings for a public housing project.

CIRCUS OWNER ROBINSON DIES

Cincinnati, July 30 (AP)—John G. Robinson, 3d, 62, who until 1916 carried on the circus established by his family 100 years ago, died at his home here today.

After disposing of his circus interests in 1916, he was secretary of the United States Playing Card Company here. His death was due to a throat ailment.

His illness interrupted plans of his son to revive the family's circus interests, building a new show around three of the four elephants he father retained after leaving the road.

Robinson is survived by his widow, his son, John Robinson, 4th, and a daughter, Mrs. Ellanora Needles, Cincinnati.

WORKER ADMITS PWA PAY THEFT

Thomas J. Croshaw, Malden ERA worker, charged with larceny of $271.80 from 19 fellow workmen, pleaded guilty in Malden court.

His father offered to make restitution and the case was continued until Friday so that arrangements for restitution can be made.

Croshaw, father of two children, living on Pearl street, had regularly taken the pay checks of his fellow workers to a bank to cash them.

Two weeks ago he cashed the checks and disappeared. He returned from Springfield and surrendered, saying he had lost his memory and had come to himself in a hotel with no money left.

He asked Judge Elbridge G. Davis if he could plead nolo contendre, but after a talk with police the judge said he would have to make it guilty or not guilty. Croshaw said guilty.

His father then stood up and said he was ready to pay the workmen $10 each immediately and would pay them all back in full.

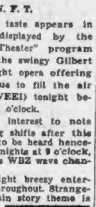
"IOLANTHE" ON AIR WAVES FOR HOUR TONIGHT

By N. F. T.

Tuneful good taste appears in evidence and displayed by the "Beauty Box Theater" program planners, with the swingy Gilbert and Sullivan light opera offering of "Iolanthe" due to fill the air for an hour (WEEI) tonight between 10 and 11 o'clock.

It is also of interest to note that said setting shifts after this evening and is to be heard henceforth on Friday nights at 9 o'clock, coming down the WBZ wavs channels.

Here is a bright breezy entertainment gem throughout. Strangely the rather thin story theme is not definitely "dated" yet the parody trend in connection with age-old governmental ramifications, dazzle and political thrusts, cause the piece to be quite as timely for enjoyment today as when it was first prepared for production in 1882. Helen Oelheim, Theodore Webb and John Barclay will portray the principal "milks" roles. Something hereby readily recommended to listeners in the light of a splendid record for past performances the above artist company has established.



"N. F. T."

SECRET AGENT STAR

This evening when it's Secret Agent X-9 time (WAAB) or 8:30 by the clock, little Frances Avena, the "Baby Blues Singer" is getting the call back for a guest artist appearance with "Uncle Newt" while Joe Lally opens and closes with his lively theme song singing and Ruth Hansen holds sway at the grand piano. Frances is the 8-year-old lass who sang some weeks ago to find a veritable flood of fan mail in response, the boys and girls who wrote urging that she broadcast again.

A dramatic but typical tale of Broadway after dark will be told to the air audience (WBZ) tonight at 9 o'clock when N. T. G. presents Eva Charles as one of the entertainers in "N. T. G. and His Girls" program. Miss Charles will be heard as a newly discovered singer in the broadcast.

Her story is the kind Nils Granlund referred to in his premiere—the chorus girl who has a family to support. While Eva Charles is entertaining in the spotlight of a Broadway cabaret she is thinking of her baby at home.

VARIETY VISIT

Fred Waring's musical "Pennsylvanians" will present the familiar Italian classic, "The Angel's Serenade," while Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd present their unnamed but nevertheless promising to be humorous classic of New York subways, as features of their full hour presentation (WNAC) this evening, from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock.

Sour Milk and Cream Ideal for Cakes

By MARTHA LEE

Don't throw away sour milk and cream that accumulate more in the summertime than any other season! It can be put to good use in cooking. Cakes and biscuits made with sour cream or sour milk seem to have more of a tenderness and delicate flavor than those made with sweet milk.

Just remember in substituting sour milk or cream for sweet milk to use ½ teaspoon of soda for each cup of sour milk and reduce the baking powder in the recipe by 1½ teaspoons. If sour cream is used reduce the shortening also.

Sour cream is really a luxury! A few tablespoons of it whipped can make a highly seasoned Horseradish Sauce or Cucumber Sauce for cold meats, such as tongue or corned beef or cold salmon. Fish fillets can be baked with the addition of a few tablespoons of sour cream. It not only moistens the fish but enriches the flavor.

If there are a few tablespoons of sour cream, serve as a dressing on a salad of raw vegetables. Fry tomatoes with the addition of a few tablespoonfuls. Beans and spinach are improved by adding a little of this fermented milk before serving. Use it in gravy, particularly for fried chicken or veal. If there isn't enough for the entire quantity add what there is to a milk gravy for added flavor.

BUSSIAN BORSCH SOUP

1 cup cabbage
3 cups soup stock
3 cups beets, chopped fine
½ cup beet juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Pepper
Juice of ½ lemon

Put the cabbage through the food chopper. Cook it for 10 minutes in 2 cups of water. Add the cooked cabbage and liquid to the soup stock. Add the chopped beets to the soup stock together with the beet juice and seasonings. Heat and serve with two tablespoons of whipped sour cream on top of each plateful. Rye or Russian bread should accompany this soup. Serves 4.

SOUR CREAM CAKE

1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup sour cream
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon flavoring
1¾ cups flour.

Beat sugar and eggs until very light, add the flavoring. Stir soda in sour cream and add alternately to the egg mixture, with the flour mixed and sifted with the salt and baking powder. Bake in layers or loaf in moderate oven, 350 deg. F., 45 minutes.

Marketing With Martha

GRAPE JUICE AND GINGER ALE make a most refreshing beverage. If you won't take our word for it stop in at a nearby food store and sample it for yourself any time this week. You will also want to see the unique way they have of serving it. An offer on a well-known make of grape juice with a bottle of ginger ale to be combined in the proper proportions for 30c.

AMONG THE SALADS for the summertime which we made at our cooking school last week was an unusual one combining cantaloupe balls and tomato. We will be very glad to send you this sheet, which also includes Jellied Egg Salad and Stuffed Tomato for use on a platter of cold meats. Simply send a three-cent stamp to Martha Lee, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston.

CHICKEN IS SO NECESSARY during the summer months for the many salads, sandwiches, and creamed dishes we find ourselves called upon to serve at unexpected moments. You will always be prepared with some of this nationally known canned chicken on the pantry shelf. A sale of a 6-ounce tin at 41c, usually 45c; 12-ounce tin 79c, usually 85c. All finest quality clear chicken meat. Other items on this sale are Chicken a la King and Chicken and Noodles.

DEVILED CHICKEN SANDWICH FILLING sound delicious? This is a new sandwich spread of a famous brand of foods. It is an introductory offer, three 3-ounce tins can be purchased for 25c or a dozen for 95c. These will sell for 10c each later.

DECORATIVE WINDOW BOXES are an added attraction to any house. They can be dressed up a bit with miniature bird houses or a little white trellis with two birds roosting on it. The trellis extends about 12 inches from the edge of the box, 18 inches in all. These sell for 25c each.

HERE IS A FAIR OFFER—two one-pound cans of Boston Baked Beans accompanied by a tiny can to be used as a sample. If you do not like the sample, return the goods and your money will be refunded.

NOW TOOTHSOME, GOLDEN-BROWN, half-inch squares of toasted bread can be purchased ready to use as a topping for soups, as an accompaniment for cocktails and salads. These croutons sell a 2-ounce package for 15c.

SPICED WATERMELON RINGS with mint or maraschino cherry centers are a proper accompaniment to add dash to a table, particularly if appetites lag a bit these warm days. Add a gay touch to a salad or sandwich plate, which are popular for luncheons these days. A 9-ounce jar sells for 50c.

I SHALL BE DELIGHTED to tell you the where and how much of all the above items, if you will send the column clipped and checked, and that necessary name and address, with a loose 3c stamp. Or, telephone Martha Lee, at Liberty 4000.

MARTHA LEE.

Q—What are the names of the "Easy Aces" couple, and are they stage people?

Attentive, of Topsfield.

A—They are Mr. and Mrs. Goodman Ace. He was a newspaper reporter in Indianapolis, and they were never on the stage.

Q—Are there any regular broadcasts from Congress in Washington, if so, on what station? I mean in connection with the discussions through the day.

C. W. K., of Roslindale.

A—None that originate in the active session, only comments by various individuals known as commentators. Men such as Lowell Thomas, Frederick William Wile or H. V. Kaltenborn.

PARALYSIS To Shut Schools

Raleigh, N. C., July 29 (US)—Dr. J. C. Knox, state epidemiologist, this afternoon advised North Carolina authorities to defer opening public schools until October 1, as a precaution against spread of infantile paralysis.

It was indicated the board of health does not expect the current epidemic to subside until cooler weather.

Nine new cases were reported today, a total of 458 since May 1.

RITZ ROOF Opens Tomorrow

Boston's largest roof garden will be opened tomorrow night on top of the Ritz Carlton Hotel.

The new 10-piece Ritz Roof orchestra will play within a specially constructed shell, which is a replica of the famous Esplanade shell, from which Arthur Fiedler has been conducting his summer evening concerts for the last seven years.

SON SAYS MASS For Mrs. Spellman

Whitman, July 30 (AP)—A pontifical mass for Mrs. Helen M. Spellman of Whitman was celebrated today at the Church of the Holy Ghost by her son, Rev. Francis J. Spellman, auxiliary bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts.

High church officials attending services included Bishop Joseph McCarty, Portland, Me.; Bishop S. E. Sciarmann, Peoria, Ill.; Bishop Daniel S. Desmond, Alexandria, Va., and Bishop James E. Cassidy, Fall River.

'LOVE BLIND'

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Better Job for Mary

SYNOPSIS

Mary Shannon had been pampered all her life. She would have gone on that way had not the sight of her father's worn collar awakened Mary to her selfishness with the result that she left college and obtained work in the San Francisco office of the A. A. Healey Steamship Company.

Mary is in love with the socially prominent James ("Jamie") Todd, Jr. Although he never said he loved her he implied that some day they would marry. Mary's superior, Stephen Bennet, rings for her just as she is ready to leave for the day.

CHAPTER II

She slipped into her coat, went to the door of the manager's office.

"Yes, Mr. Bennet?"

"Oh, you're ready to go!" He slid his long legs off the desk, pulled a flat white gold watch from his pocket. "Five two—well, never mind."

"If it's anything important——"

She hadn't meant to say that. A certain disappointment in his face, in the way he laid down the little sheaf of papers in his hand, drew it from her. Of course, if it was really important . . . She hesitated, lips still parted.

"Well, it's important—to me, and, I thought, perhaps to you... No, don't get your notebook. We'll do the report tomorrow. It's that wire I got this afternoon from Seattle. I'm ordered up to the home office. Going to be manager there. It's a big thing for me—"

She saw he was awfully proud. Well, good for him. Good for Bennet! He wasn't so bad, really. Not bad looking, either, and not so old ...Now if he'd just hurry with it, and not make her lose the boat...

He was floundering around. Something in his eye...something for her...

"You mean, the new man won't—won't want me? She tried to keep her voice steady, but the idea was frightening. Losing a job now, when there weren't any...being out of work...

"Oh, no!"

She breathed again

"It isn't that." He cleared his throat. "It's a promotion for me, you see. They said I could bring my—my assistant with me. Mr. Samson, the Seattle man who's coming down here, thought of bringing his stenographer with him, so a complete exchange—"

"You mean for me to go to Seattle? To leave here!"

Hates Commuting

"Well, I thought . . . it would be a promotion for you, too—the larger office, right in the lumber country where our business originates. I feel sure I could get you more real money. If you would like to make the change——"

"Oh, Mr. Bennet, I couldn't. I have my family here—all my friends. I couldn't leave. I really don't see . . Couldn't I stay here? Would Mr Samson keep me?"

"Oh, yes. It can be arranged some way. I'll fix it for you . . . I just thought—the larger opportunity—"

Mr. Bennett reached for his hat. He looked rather tired.

He walked out ahead of her, leaving her to lock the office——. HE never thought of anything like that!—and she with less than five minutes to make the ferry!

She hated commuting. Hated it most of all on rainy nights. The little California street cable car was a life saver when you were late, but it cost a nickel to ride, and when every nickel counts . . .

Besides, you had to run the last long block anyway, for the California street cable stops at Market.

People got in her way. Old girls with umbrellas, stepping gingerly on the wet pavements. People poking along from the other direction. fruit stands laden with paper bags

Coming out of the markets and —walking slowly. Just because THEIR boat wasn't in, they'd take their time, and you could miss yours.

A big man with a flapping overcoat and a bag of golf sticks was running just ahead. What does anyone want with golf sticks on a rainy day? But she followed close behind him, and with his running interference got through the newsboys, the taxi men, the jam at the embarcadero.

Automatically, her eyes sought the clock over the gate. Half a minute to spare.

She stopped, panting a little, reached in her bag for her "commute," saw that the new movie magazines were on the stands. Hesitated. A movie magazine, or caramels?

"Gardenia, Please!"

The flower stand, the familiar flower stand, so thrilling to tourists, almost invisible to her who passed it every morning and night, happened to catch her eye. Though she liked flowers, she seldom had time for these.

The clock above the counter was about the only thing she ever consciously looked at, except the panel of a mirror in which you could examine your feet, your legs, your skirt, and finally the whole of you, as you came down the stairs from the upper gangway in the mornings.

It was the daffodils, planted in pots with pussy willows, that caught her eye tonight. Cute! Ma would go crazy over a thing like that. But they'd be expensive and you'd look goopy, lugging one home.

Roses and violets and pansies heaped high on the counter. Gardenias, special today, 15 cents!

"A gardenia, please."

It looked darling on her blue coat. She looked down at it fondly as she walked unhurriedly through the gate to the Oakland ferryboat, a matter of several seconds left.

But after she had dodged the talky Johnson girls, and made up her mind that Ethlyn Piper had missed the boat, she wished she hadn't bought the flower. No telling what the new manager would be like. Bennet hadn't cut her, but the new one might be an economy hound. She was too devilish extravagant, anyway . . .

Her fingers twitched on the little package she had in her hands. Such a little package. Yet it had cost eight ninety-five. Better tell Ma it cost four ninety-five. Ma would faint—think she was crazy, buying eight ninety-five night gowns. And so she was.

Mary's gloves came off. One hand slipped into the bag, under the protecting tissue paper, brought out a fold of ivory satin, an edge of deep ecru Alencon lace.

It was a beautiful night gown, but nothing she needed. Though it's not such a bad idea to be prepared. Jamie wasn't the kind to propose and be accepted, and ask you to name a day, and send out cards for a wedding.

He'd be far more likely to say, "Let's go to Reno over the weekend, hon." Probably suggest it about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and want to leave Saturday night.

She smiled a little when she thought of how it would be, driving up to Reno to be married, in Jamie's blue-green roadster. It could be any time—this week even. She thought of the things she would take. The special, best things tucked away with jasmine sachet in corners where Ma wouldn't be so likely to notice.

"She Means Well"

You could hardly smuggle a pair of garters into the house. Somebody would find out about it. Then Ma and Uncle Willie would have to know where you got them, and how much they cost.

Oh, well!

She shut her eyes for a moment. It was all kind of hard on you. Even Jamie, and going to Reno, for every girl wants a real wedding. Not much chance of her ever getting one. Not while he took good care she didn't meet his folks.

Not that she wanted to meet them, really. Too bad Jamie wasn't born an orphan

As she got off the train at Grove, and walked up the two blocks past the Nan and Myrtle beauty parlor and the neighborhood grocery, she permitted herself to speculate on the chances of his becoming one.

His mother was supposed to have a bad heart, and his father was well past 60. They couldn't last forever.

She stopped to look in the mail box before she drew her key from her bag, and opened the front door. There was always the chance of the family forgetting to look, and always the chance that he'd write.

As usual, the box was empty.

"Hello!" she called from the little square front hall.

"Hello, dear," Ma called from the kitchen.

Something was wrong. You could always tell with Ma. Her voice was a dead give away.

"Look—I bought you a gardenia. Smell it? Sweet? What's the news? Don't you feel well?"

Ma, flushed from cooking, her movements flurried and a bit strained, laid down the loaf of bread she was cutting and sniffed at the white fragrance of the waxy flower. "Mmm. Lovely. I'm fine. But you oughtn't to spend your money. I keep telling you, a nickel here and nickel there . . . what's in that package, Babe?"

"Oh, just something extravagant. I'll show you afterwards."

"Extravagant all right, I guess. Well, everything's ready. Call your Pa. He's in the basement puttering with the radio, though there's nothing the matter with it I could see. I'm all ready to dish up. WIL-LIE! DIN-NER!"—and then in a whisper, as she whisked the peas and carrots into a dish.

"She's found out something—about Jamie Todd. She wouldn't tell me what it was, but she hinting like it was worse than a murder. Now don't you mind, Babe, because you know how she is. She means well, but she—"

Jamie!

Mary Shannon's lips stiffened.

Then she laughed. "Oh! Well! If THAT'S all. I should think you'd know more than to LISTEN to her. She gets everything wrong, and if you ask me, she's getting worse all the time. Heavens, Ma, what OF it! Suppose she did hear something. Wait—I'll ask her—"

"No, I wouldn't. She's been acting very funny. She's got one of her mysterious streaks on. And she's been in her room for hours, fixing herself. I don't know what for. WILLIE! DINNER'S READY!—It's a facial, I think She took an egg in with her, and mixed some kind of gray stuff—shh! Well, Willie! I thought you'd died in there!"

Replenish Your Bouquet of Summer Frocks

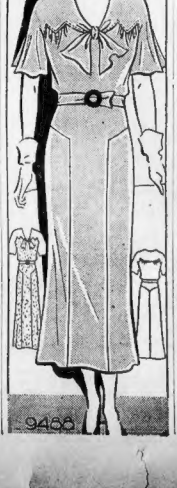
By ANNICE BRINK

EVEN WITH the influx of fall fashions, there are still smart summer things to be found around town. There is a large demand for them, too, with many shoppers either replacing gaps in the wardrobe, or intending to prolong midsummer into August and even September with fresh, pretty, new frocks. Miss Jane Bogardus, post-deb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bogardus of Swampscott, models three especially nice budget frocks. Above a cream-in-coffee peasant linen with polo belt, huge carved wooden buttons and contrasting touches of brown. With it is worn a hand-crocheted beret, open and laced on the right side. Center, right, is a blue-grey chambray shirtmaker frock, its details finished exactly like those in a man's shirt, with tiny buttons holding fast the collar and the four slit pockets. The most popular hat of the summer, the up-in-back and way out in front style is seen in an extra large version of white linen with navy blue ribbon. For further information, see caption on right.

IMPORTED muslin is gayly splashed with red, orange blue and green flowers, and belted with brilliant red velvet ribbon. Ruffles outline the large, square yoke collar effect.

The muslin and chambray frocks illustrated are in the neighborhood of four dollars, and the peasant linen is around eight. For shopping details on any of the frocks or hats, all from a Boston shop, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

Pattern Makes Two Frocks



By MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9488

It's wise economy for the heavier woman who has a bit of difficulty finding styles with good lines, to choose this one pattern for two frocks!

It lends itself so well to variety, for one might be made of monotone triple sheer for dressy occasions and another print with contrasting yoke and sleeve (small sketch) for a less important dress.

It's a delight to find a frock that can be made so quickly. All sleeve trouble is eliminated in a deft cut of yoke, tie and sleeve, all in one!

Softly the bodice gathers into the decorative yoke and a trim panelled skirt slims down the hips.

Silk crepe or sheer or voile are excellent. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9488 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires 4 yards 39-inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

The Marian Martin Summer Pattern Book will lead your way to warm weather Chic!

Send for your copy now! Price of book fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Address orders to Boston American Pattern Department, 243 West 17th street, New York, N. Y.

Gracious Thank-You Note to Neighbors

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I met a very nice family two months ago and since then I have rented a part of their house which has been made into a very lovely apartment. When I moved here, we agreed to be "friends and neighbors" and to do whatever we could to help each other.

I can sew very nicely, and I am taking a course in nursing. I have made a dress or two, and have given some advice and assistance in caring for their sick son.

I have refused any pay for my services, as I thought it my duty to help a neighbor and friend. The mother and daughter had a very useful gift sent to me from a department store in appreciation of my many kindnesses to them.

I feel that I should send them a thank-you note. Will you please tell me just how to word such a note?

M.

Your note of thanks must be worded rather like this:

Dear Mrs. Knowiton — What glorious "friends and neighbors" you and that lovely daughter of yours are to me! Just as if it weren't enough that you have both been so wonderfully kind and generous to me in letting me share your charming house and your friendship, you heap sweet thoughts and now a beautiful gift in my life.

Bless you and thank you for all this goodness to me—I hope some day I may deserve all these gifts of friendliness you have given me.

The purse is a beauty, just the kind I love and just what I needed most. I shall carry it with special joy in the thought that you both were so thoughtful and so kind. Thank you, with all my heart. Dearest love to you both.

Devotedly yours.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My husband and I have just received an invitation to an engagement reception at which we understand the engagement of this particular young couple will be formally announced.

We are in a quandary as to whether it is proper to send a gift before or after the reception, or if to send anything at all, and, if so, what type of present it should be.

H.

It is not at all necessary for you and your husband to take a gift to this reception.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am in mourning and during the summer months I will wear all-white clothing. Please tell me the shade of stocking that is considered proper to wear under the circumstances?

J.

Wear stockings as near the shade of your skin as you can find.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Leading FROM King SMALL

By MRS. CULBERTSON

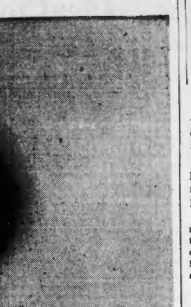
What usually prove very bad leads can occasionally be the best leads in desperate cases.

For example, the opening lead of a King from K x is in many cases obviously the only play to defeat a contract.

The fact that more often than not it will lose one inconsequential trick in the play should not deter a player who is more anxious to gain the all-important setting trick.

East, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♡ (1)	Double (2)
4 ♡ (3)	4 ♠ (4)	Pass	Pass

(1) After two passes, West makes a light bid to give a false impression of strength and perhaps call a lead against notrump. West's hand is not weak in playing strength, and even though he is vulnerable, the bid is not particularly unsafe.

(2) Though desiring a spade response, North is prepared for any suit. His hand is not strong enough to bid two hearts over one heart, for this bid is forcing to game.

(3) East's bid is a good one which has as its purpose shutting South out of the bidding.

(4) After North's double, South is of course strong enough to make a free bid at almost any level.

* * *

West realized East's jump raise has been based on strong distribution but little in honors.

It seemed unlikely East could win more than one trick defensively, and West's maximum limit seemed to be two tricks.

The only hope for a fourth was to ruff a diamond. West, therefore, opened the King of diamonds, hoping East would have either the Ace or the Queen.

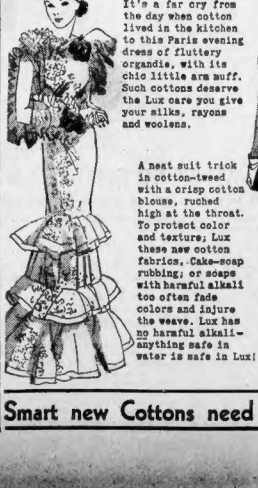
The Queen would be equally satisfactory, for West would get the lead on the first round of spades and could then look for a chance to put East in either in diamonds or—if declarer held up the Ace—in hearts or clubs.

Since East held the diamond Ace, the contract was defeated in the first four tricks. On the King, East played the ten, a very encouraging card.

A diamond continuation put East in with the Ace and when a low diamond was led back, West ruffed with the Jack of spades.

Nothing could take the Ace of trumps away from him and four spades was set one trick.

Cotton—once a Cinderella becomes a Fashion Queen



It's a far cry from the day when cotton lived in the kitchen to this Paris evening dress of fluttery organdie, with its chic little arm muff. Such cottons deserve the Lux care you give your silks, rayons and woolens.

A neat suit trick in cotton-tweed with a crisp cotton blouse, ruched high at the throat. To protect color and texture; Lux these new cotton fabrics. Cake-soap rubbing; or soaps with harmful alkali too often fade colors and injure the weave. Lux has no harmful alkali—anything safe in water is safe in Lux!

Smart new Cottons need LUX care

ADVICE on LOVE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX and NELL BRINKLEY

He Fell In Love At Church

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

It was just chance that led me to attend the services at a certain church one Sunday morning, as I was a stranger in the city.

The organ was played magnificently, and as I've always been interested in organ music, I waited 'round to say a word to the organist.

When I saw that it was she, not he, I was taken with stage fright and rushed away.

I have attended services in that church ever since, and that was over a year ago. I've never met the organist, and now I'm as much in love with her, even more, than I am with her playing.

I haven't been brought up to speak to girls without an introduction, and I don't know a soul to introduce me to this splendid young musician. She's aware of me all right, because when I wait to see her come down, her eyes rest on me not unkindly. I wish someone would introduce us.

MELVILLE.

Where's your ingenuity, my dear young man? Call on the pastor of the church, tell him how the organ music charmed you and, almost simultaneously, the organist. If he's human, as most clergymen are, he will certainly introduce you to this young lady.

SHE DOESN'T WANT TO BE DROPPED

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

It seemed, when he told me he was tired of our going together, that he might have been kinder about it. We had been devoted for two years. I had dropped everyone on his account, because he was jealous, and I stayed home evening after evening hoping he would call or phone me to meet him. Then one day he was tired of it all, and he'd found someone he liked better. I broke down crying, but he just said I was silly, and for me to find someone else who would appreciate me more.

The girl that he now goes with is entirely different from me. She breaks dates, drops one man, picks up another and doesn't care seriously about any of them. Yet all the fellows flock around her. Why is this, and why can't I take any interest in someone else?

S. G. C.

The reason this young man got tired of you, my dear, is that he was too sure of you. It may not be true in all cases, but an element of uncertainty or, as it is called, "keeping him guessing," is a good thing with the average man. You will have to make yourself take an interest in someone else. Bluff yourself into thinking so, for the time being at least, and let this young man, on whom you've wasted two years' devotion, continue to pursue his butterfly.

This will also answer "Broken-hearted" and Adele B.

THEY EXCHANGED PINS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Early last spring I joined our church choir and met Henry. The following month we exchanged pins. Later he left for the Pacific Coast to be gone six months. Is it fair for me to go out with other boys without letting Henry know?

Lately, I heard from another boy that Henry had had an affair with one of the sopranos in the choir. It was harmless, but he never let me know about it. Henry has never really told me that he loves me. Will it be all right to accept the attention of other boys, though I care a good deal for Henry?

L. P.

As I have said so often in this column, a boy or girl is free to accept the attentions of others, if not positively engaged to someone. Even then, engaged young people have sometimes gone out with others under certain circumstances, as when one is asked to show some attention to a temporary visitor in town.

Beauty Answers

By THE BEAUTY EDITOR

Question: I am very thin and because I am almost 5 feet 8 inches tall, look ungainly. I have tried to gain consistently for nearly a year now. What can I do and what diet or foods do you know of that will really put a few pounds on my bones? Any suggestions will be more than appreciated.

JOAN B., Boston.

Answer: Chocolate is a fine building agent. A quart of milk a day will also help, not that it is so very fattening, but because it contains almost all the necessary food elements. Put plenty of butter on your bread. Vegetables that will add poundage are potatoes, beets, turnips, lima beans, corn and peas. Green salads are not likely to put on curves, but they are necessary for a well-balanced diet. Get plenty of sleep, exercise in moderation, and don't throw emotional storms. Don't play or work too hard. I have a four-day-weight gaining diet which you may have if you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

His The Astor Baby---and Just a Baby

By Nell Brinkley

Here is very young "John Jacob Astor the fourth," and his lovely young mother, Ellen ("Tucky") French Astor. Beside them is—just a baby, and HIS pretty young Mother. He has a name, and so has his Mother—but we do not know it. They are just one Mother and son out of millions like them.

We have left the young Fathers out of the picture, well-known, and UNknown. Not because a father is not important—but all the world agrees that the mother is more so—and that that same world is more interested in the mother than in the father. He does not make as pretty a picture!

But the Father IS important: and that little son is fortunate whose Father loves him in a normal fatherly way, is proud of him, works for him and will not leave him for some strange young woman who comes along and says, "It is too bad about your boy and your wife, but it can't be helped!" and makes the Father think that that little boy does not need him.

This very new Astor boy-infant in one picture has, or will have, for it is waiting for him—$100,000,000. One hundred millions of dollars!

He has a lovely, loving young mother and a proud young father. It looks as if the world also was his. And it will be, with the opportunities that great wealth can bring if it is used rightly, and if that young mother is loving and ambitious.

The other baby, just little John Somebody, has O dollars. NOTHING in worldly wealth in comparison to the first baby. BUT THE WORLD IS HIS TOO, even more than it is the golden baby's! For POOR mothers are notoriously ambitious, and famously loving. From them have come the world's greatest men.

The golden baby, and the poor baby, are both to be congratulated on their young mothers. The money could very well have been left out of the picture when they have them.

CHAPTER 406

Had I heard Dicky aright?

For a startled second after his astounding statement that I would have to help him with Edith Fairfax, I sat rigid, wondering if my ears had played me false.

For I know it was no aid for Edith that Dickey was enlisting. The anger which he had just shown toward both Edith and Avis for the trick they had tried to play upon me, his characterization of both of them as "bad medicine," his declaration that he did not wish either one to come within "twenty miles of me"—all of these rang with sincerity and genuine emotion.

No, it must be help for himself against Edith. I thrilled to the knowledge, with the feeling that only a wife can understand, especially one who knows that another woman desires her man, and though undesired by him, is leaving no stone unturned in order to make mischief.

ENLISTING A WIFE'S AID

"What's the matter?" Dicky's voice cut impatiently across my introspection, and I roused myself to answer him.

"Nothing, nothing at all. It just seemed so—"

"We'll talk about it later, and I'll do anything I can, anything you wish," I whispered.

"That's my own girl," he whispered back, then after a second's hesitation, blurted out with eyes suddenly perturbed — and I thought—a bit evasive—

"Edie's likely to blab anything before she goes. But you won't pay any attention to what she says, will you?"

I only had time for a low promise. "No, indeed, I won't," before the entire house party came into the living room.

"We simply raced down," Helena Brixton said vivaciously, "when we heard the luncheon bell."

Dicky had pressed my arm with a warning gesture, or I think I should have blurted out the truth, that neither one of us had heard the luncheon bell. But I saw two pairs of eyes in watchful scrutiny of us, one pair Lillian's, with friendliness in their expression, the other pair, Edith's, with unveiled malevolence.

Dicky, however, was equal to the occasion if I was not.

"It's lucky you raced," he told Helena solemnly, "else you would have found a greedy host gobbling all the titbits. Madge is a lady, but even her restraining influence couldn't have kept me from that table another thirty seconds."

Helena crossed to him, curtsied low, and then took his arm possessively.

MYSTERIOUS "FLOSS" AGAIN

"I'm the guest of honor, aren't I?" she queried laughingly. "Anyway, I'm going to take my place at the right of the host for this particular meal. I have a weakness for titbits myself."

Repugnant as the very sight of Samuel Brixton was to me, I knew that I must "play up" at this particular moment, and crossing to him, I slipped my hand under his arm.

"Fair exchange," I quoted smiling, and Edith laughed, a bit discordantly.

"Never lose a bet, do you, darling?" she said.

"Why should she?" Lillian countered, lounging lazily to Edith's side, and taking her by the arm. "Come along, old dear. I don't advise delay when Katie's victuals are in the offing."

But as I led the way into the dining room, I was conscious of Edith's venomous eyes upon me, and I wondered just what it was that Dicky feared she would "blab." And then, like a serpent stretching its head out of a hole, there rose in my mind a name which I had forgotten in the excitement of Mary's wedding, the name of "Floss."

Frozen Eau de Cologne

Cool as a Sea Breeze

By THE BEAUTY EDITOR

DO YOU REMEMBER last week when the heat almost got you— and you turned the electric fan up another notch, clutched a glass of iced tea in one hand and smelling salts in the other — and gave yourself up?

And your reward, contrary to all hot-weather ethics, was that you got hotter and hotter, and you wished you had listened to the mad suggestion of one of the children and gone off to the beach and got parboiled all over again.

Anything, you thought, was better than the terrible inevitability of a summer afternoon at home with nothing to do but watch the thermometer climb to dizzy, new heights.

"Somewhere, some place," you moaned, "there must be something to make me feel cool. Oh, for a good, old January blizzard, and an igloo all my own."

Well, then, here is new news—and good news—and really great news. It is a frozen eau de cologne. It may be our imagination, but we can swear that we felt ten degrees cooler after we daubed a bit on wrists and at temples. In fact we felt so refreshed after one application that we forgot all about the weather.

Frozen cologne comes in stick form, and is actually cool to the touch. It looks something like a colorless lipstick of jumbo size, and boasts a nice glass container which is of convenient purse size.

POSED BY RUBY KEELER

There is no trick in applying—just touch it to your skin and wait for a breath of the frozen north. It takes about one second before you feel as though cool breezes were blowing all about you. Frozen cologne is pleasant to use, is sponsored by one of the originators of fluid colognes, and is most inexpensive in price.

To learn the name of this frozen cologne and the store where it is sold, call Juliet Shelby, Liberty 4000, or write to her at the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fashion Flashes

THERE ARE brooches that snap apart to form two clips.

There are bracelets that may be put together to make a necklace.

There's practically no end to the tricks of the new jewelry. They're worth their price in entertainment value, to say nothing of their beauty.

LEAGUE FACES CRISIS OVER ETHIOPIA

London, July 30 (INS)—A proposal for an international European mandate over Abyssinia to stave off the threatened Italo-Abyssinian war has been made to Emperor Haile Selassie, the Exchange Telegraph stated in a dispatch from Addis Ababa today.

Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press

Geneva, July 30—The League of Nations confronted obstacles today in its apparent program of speaking softly in the impasse between Italy and Ethiopia.

League circles said England appeared the only member of the council likely to call for forceful action at a momentous session tomorrow.

Reports from Scandinavian capitals indicated they would insist on protection of smaller nations.

Any persistent temporizing, Geneva sources said, might lead to difficulties at the September session of the League Assembly and even threats of new resignations.

Italy Rushes More Troops to East Africa

By Associated Press

Rome, July 30—Italy dispatched further fighting forces to East Africa today as Italian diplomats journeyed to Geneva to take part in the League of Nation's efforts to liquidate the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

Six Italian delegates left for Geneva yesterday, while Baron Pompeo Aloisi, head of the delegation, arranged to leave today after further conferences with Fulvio Suvich, under-secretary for foreign affairs.

Spokesmen said the full force of the Italian delegation would be thrown behind Italy's insistence that only one question was before the League council—revival of the conciliation commission.

France Reinforces Her Somaliland Garrisons

Paris, July 30—The French government ordered reinforcements for its garrisons in French Somaliland today to ensure neutrality in event of a conflict between Italy and Ethiopia.

Authoritative sources said fear that native sympathizers for Ethiopia at Djibouti, French Somaliland, might get out of hand, prompted the order.

Simultaneously, new orders were promulgated to strengthen France's northeastern defenses by changing the organization and distribution of units manning the forts.

South Africa British Enlist to Aid Ethiopia

By Associated Press

Capetown, South Africa, July 30—Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was said in a dispatch by the Reuters (British) News Agency today to have asked for prompt dispatch to Ethiopia of white men recruited here as officers for Ethiopian troops.

It was said instructions to enlist British subjects have been sent by the Emperor to Seyd Ahmed Berbardien, official Ethiopian representative in Capetown.

W. D. LEAHY, 74, Milford Editor, Dies

Milford, July 30 (AP)—William D. Leahy, 74, editor, publisher and founder of the Milford Daily News, died today.

Leahy, also founder of the Fitchburg Daily News, and the Norwich, Ct., Daily News, was a native of Stonington, Ct. He formerly worked as a compositor on the New York Times, Sun, and the old World.

THUG GETS $97 In Quincy Holdup

Cye Sharad, 35, clerk in the Old Colony Market on Copeland street, West Quincy, reported to police today that shortly after opening the store a gunman robbed him of $97, of which $37 was his own money. The victim lives on Granite street, West Quincy.

Ruins of Blast-Torn Saugus Garage and Two of Injured

GEORGE B. DREW — CHESTER TARBOX

(Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographers)

Explosion of gas tanks levelled the Saugus public works department garage, causing fire that injured six firemen. Hundreds of Saugus residents fled their homes when the force of the blast rocked the earth like a temblor. Picture shows interior of wrecked garage, with insets of Lieutenant George B. Drew of the Saugus fire department, who was hurled 15 feet by one of the blasts, and of Fireman Chester Tarbox, who was burned as he aided in the rescue of trapped fellow firemen.

3 Firemen Dying After Blast

In intense pain, but still fighting gamely for life, Chief Mellen R. Joy, 70, of the Saugus fire department, and two firemen still have their names on the danger list today at Lynn hospital.

Norman I. Hull, 27, and Warren Newhall, 30, the two firemen burned in the blast at the Saugus public works garage were as badly hurt as Chief Joy, but they have the advantage of youth on their side, attendants said.

Chief may not recover.

Harold Coburn, 30, Saugus fire department chauffeur, who also required treatment at the hospital, was severely burned, but was not considered to be in any danger.

So far as could be learned, the $30,000 blast occurred when an acetelyne torch exploded, igniting the gasoline refueling tanks in the garage.

The second blast buried cement building blocks of which the garage was constructed 50 and 60 feet away lifted the roof and then let it down into the floor, and buried the four men several feet.

Fire Lieutenant George B. Drew and Chester Tarbox, a fireman were bruised and slightly burned when they fought the ensuing fire. They were given first aid at the scene.

Held for Assault

Brockton, July 30—David J. Perry, 32, of Huntington st., today was held in $1000 bail for the Grand Jury charged with assault and robbery of Albion Grunberg, 58, Main st. Francis Keenan, 22, arrested with Perry, was discharged.

Cape Canal Cruise Set for Thursday

Another half-rate cruise through the Cape Cod Canal on the Steamship Steel Pier next Thursday will carry hundreds of readers of the Boston American on a 110-mile sail to Buzzards Bay by co-operative arrangement of this newspaper and the Cape Cod Steamship Company.

The special coupon which appears in the Boston Evening American tomorrow will, when presented at the Commercial Wharf ticket office, permit the holder to the round trip at exactly half the usual price.

Children will be allowed to take the excursion for fifty cents provided they are accompanied by a parent or an adult relative.

The Steel Pier will leave her dock at 10:15 a. m. and will sail through the canal under the new Sagamore and Bourne bridges with a short stopover at Buzzards Bay. She will return at 6:00 p. m.

If you are going to take the trip clip the coupon tomorrow and be at the dock early.

Dying Since '61

By Associated Press

Orangeburg, S. C., July 30—William Hass has celebrated his 90th birthday.

In 1861 an army medical examiner turned him down because of his heart.

A year or so after that an insurance examiner decided he was a poor risk.

WARCRY SOUNDS AGAINST REDS

Chicago, July 30—Forty prominent Methodist Episcopal laymen from all over the Middle West, including Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture in the Hoover cabinet, had today sounded a call for a nation-wide war to sweep out Communistic influences from the church.

A resolution was adopted declaring that when the pulpit and religious press "substitute economic and social systems for the Christian ideal of individual responsibility and freedom of choice," they are losing sight of their fundamental objectives.

DEATH ENDS Accident Romance

Omaha, Neb., July 30 (AP)—The romance of Leslie G. Chamberlin, 22, traffic policeman, and his bride of four months who met him while nursing him after he was injured in an accident was ended by death. Chamberlin died last night of injuries suffered in a crash Sunday. At his bedside, nursing him again, was his wife.

Cohasset Premiere Attracts Many Fashionables

By BETTY ALDEN

THE FLOWER OF the South Shore, the age and the youth, with, of course, the accent on youth, assembled in Cohasset Town Hall last evening to view the opening performance of the South Shore Players' version of the Broadway success, "Accent on Youth" . . .

If, when we say "South Shore Players' version," our words create an impression of something amateurish and provincial, the impression is incorrect, as both the leading roles in the play were taken by the actors who played them in New York . . .

MRS. WILLIAM O. COX

With an excellent supporting cast and with most of the audience attired in formal clothes the old wooden auditorium of the Town Hall, in the old seacoast town on the South Shore, might well have been the little theater off Times Square . . .

• • •

Adds to Laurels

MARY HOWES, a daughter of one of Cohasset's social families, again had a prominent part in the cast and is beginning to acquire the poise and little tricks of a professional actress . . . Finding herself very thrilled and proud at her daughter's success, Mrs. Ernest G. Howes had a front row seat with other members of her family . . . She wore a black crepe gown trimmed with deep fringe and a short wrap of cafe au lait velvet . . . Her other daughters, Mrs. A. O. Barker, whose black hair and ruby red dress with its golden girdle resemble an old Italian painting, and Mrs. Ernest Purveyor, a decided contrast in a fluffy white gown with a waist length cape of uncurled ostrich, were in her party . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Johnson were accompanied by their daughter, Miss Mary Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Delano Wight also enjoyed the play with a family party . . . Miss Anne Wight, their debutante daughter, and her Harvardian brother, Crocker, were with them . . .

Mrs. J. Lewis Bremer, one of the South Shore's most ardent followers of events in the tennis world, was in the audience, wearing a very vivid printed gown on the orange and reddish tones . . . Another young member of a tennis family there was Miss Polly Palfrey, whose black gown was printed with chartreuse figures and had a chartreuse and sapphire blue silk sash . . .

• • •

Jane Bancroft in Audience

HAPPENING TO BE in the audience instead of with the players, Jane Bancroft received greetings from her many friends . . . Jane is just back from dramatic triumphs afield and biding her time until next week when she will appear with the South Shore Players . . . Her floor length fitted taffeta wrap of deep green was worn with a very dramatic air and did not allow a glimpse of what color dress she wore . . . She was with Louise MacMillan and her mother, Mrs. Hugh Bancroft . . .

Other members of the Bancroft family, without whom no Cohasset event would be complete, included Mr. Guy Bancroft, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cox, the latter in a chiffon gown of deep sapphire blue . . .

The ranks of the socially prominent were swelled by the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Drinkwater, their daughter, Mrs. William Ball Rice; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hastings with their daughter, Miss Mary Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. Howland Shaw Warren, the latter in a dainty white cross bar organdie frock; Alexander Williams of Needham; Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Smith with their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Smith of Scituate; Mrs. Frank Sawyer who wore a fox cape over her flowered silk gown, and Dr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Fernald . . .

Others in the very summery audience were Miss Alice Kilham, Mrs. Roger Williams, wearing a strawberry color gown with a white wrap; Mr. and Mrs. George Muir, 2d, Mr. William J. Davidson, Mr. Shepperd Strudwick, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Crampton, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Menard, Miss Dodo Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Dean K. James, Mr. Stuart Baird, Rev. and Mrs. Charles C. Both Mr. Vaughan and Mr. Bonsal took a very active part in horse events around Boston this spring . . . Mr. Vaughan was one of the stewards of the Eastern Horse Club's Race Meet at Brookline and Raceland . . . Mr. Bonsal, whose wife is the former Edith Bass Bird, granddaughter of Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, came up from his home in Maryland to serve as a judge at the Lancaster and Dedham Horse Shows . . .

Barnard-Nowell Ceremony

A PRINCESS GOWN of old ivory satin, with which she wore a veil of point d'esprit caught with clusters of orange blossoms, set off the fair Dorothy Elizabeth Nowell for her wedding to Alfred Walter Barnard, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Barnard of Woburn.

The ceremony at St. Mary's Church in Winchester was attended by a large circle of friends from north of Boston.

Miss Virginia Nowell was her sister's maid of honor and wore a frock of pale rose taffeta with larkspur accents and a bouquet of roses and larkspur. Both girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Nowell of Winchester.

Miss Nancy Stevens, of Winchester, in her floor length dress of pale lavender organdy and graceful yellow flowers, made a dainty flower girl.

Mr. Herbert Cogan of Woburn was best man and ushers were Mr. Frank Nowell of Winchester and Mr. Raymond Connolly of Woburn.

A reception followed the wedding and after a honeymoon to Canada and the White Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Barnard will reside in Winchester.

Cynthia Dudley To Wed Charles D. Post, Jr.

MISS CYNTHIA DUDLEY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Dean Dudley of Syracuse, New York, has completed plans for her wedding to Mr. Charles D. Post, Jr., of Boston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Post of Syracuse.

The ceremony will be performed in the garden of the Dudley home on the afternoon of August 12, and Miss Jane Grey Dudley will be her sister's maid of honor.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Elizabeth Brooks of Syracuse and Miss Barbara Jacobs of Bethlehem, Pa.

T. Denton Carmen of Newton will be the best man and the ushers will inclue A. Van Wagenen Hancock of Syracuse, Dudley Orr of Concord, N. H., Frederick Weld of Lowell, Frank Goodwin of Washington, D. C., and John Fox of Detroit.

After the wedding Mr. Post and his bride will make their home in Boston.

Miss Miller Is Bride

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT CLINTON MILLER of Cranford, N. J., announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Johnstone Miller, to Mr. John Busby Chamberlin of Cambridge, son of Mr. Arthur B. Chamberlin of New York.

The Rev. Dr. William Robert Sloan performed the ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church in Cranford.

Miss Miller wore an afternoon gown of printed silk and carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Linda Sherrer of Chicago, the bride's only attendant, wore an afternoon gown of chartreuse chiffon and carried talisman roses and blue delphinium.

Mr. Robert Stone of Beaver, Pa., nephew of Associate Justice Harlan Fiske Stone of the United States Supreme Court, was best man. A reception for the family and intimate friends followed the ceremony.

The bride attended the Hartridge School in Plainfield, N. J., and the Northampton School for Girls and was graduated from Smith College last month.

Listen, World! -:- By Elsie Robinson

Have You or Are You a "Carmichael"?

Frank Swinnerton has a name for them. They are, says he in Tokefield Papers, "Carmichaels."

Meaning what? Meaning those cussed creatures, male and female, young and old, who make a business of preying on our sympathy.

"Their essential feature," says Mr. Swinnerton, "is the gift of being pathetic, thereby making us feel remorseful, hard and selfish . . .

"Children who cannot play by themselves are Carmichaels. Older people who show wounded feelings after our short non-letter-writing absence; all parents whose children dare not marry for fear of the gap left at home are Carmichaels. Destroying our peace of mind, the tyranny of the Carmichael is incessant."

Elsie Robinson

PEEVISH MAMA

You could add scores to that list, out of your own circle of acquaintances, couldn't you? And with what gusto!

There's the Peevish Mama who always gets her own way by reminding her children of all she's suffered For Them . . . or telling her husband how she's given him "the best years of her youth" . . .

Or the Pouty Papa who makes a big hit with sympathetic sweeties by telling how misunderstood he is at home. "If I'd only met someone like you—"

Or the Domestic Martyr who "wears her fingers to the bone" for everyone, without receiving "a particle of consideration in return"—

Or the Sensitive Soul, male, female or what-have-you, whose life is one long, agonizing series of snubs, sinister plots and brutal attacks—

Or the General Nuisance who bores us all to tears with his endless recitals, but whom we dare not duck lest we be considered Heartless Monsters.

CHRONIC SUFFERERS

And we haven't even started! There are at least 2987 other varieties of Chronic Sufferers who waste our time, squander our questions and wreck our morale with their pity appeals, over everything from an ingrowing toenail to a race riot.

Often, indeed, there was genuine heartbreak in the beginning of their story. The death of some loved one. Betrayal by someone they trusted. Sickness. Some hideous accident or outrageous injustice which merits honest sympathy.

But presently the Carmichael makes a pleasant discovery. The sob story, if sufficiently tragic, serves two purposes—it's a perfect alibi for cowardice, laziness and general cussedness . . . and it's a swell method of grabbing the spotlight and gratifying one's egotism.

For you can't, of course, expect a Broken Heart to act regular, or give him the bawling out he deserves when he doesn't act regular.

Nor can you deny him the audience he demands. So, any way you look at it, the Carmichael's sitting pretty and you are on the spot.

And nine times out of ten we deserve to be on that spot! We are responsible for it, says Frank Swinnerton, "BECAUSE WE CANNOT SAY 'NO.'"

We knew that the Carmichael is a colossal ruthless egotist who believes that HIS pain is greater than the pain of any other mortal.

We know that he's having a swell time listening to his own plaints and burps and that he doesn't care a hoot what happens to anyone else, s'long as he gets plenty of attention. Yet we haven't the gumption to kick him out. And why?

It is because we're really softhearted, patient and filled with brotherly love? It is NOT!

It's because we're spineless and conceited! Bored though we are, still it flatters our vanity to have the Carmichael appeal to US. Also, we cringe from the thought of what he'll say about us if we refuse to listen.

So the racket goes merrily on! And we continue to "maintain a public nuisance" which we could abate in sixty seconds if we had the spunk of a woodtick!

6 MILLION PWA FUND TO GIVE 4000 WORK

Four thousand men will get $6,200,000 in the next two years.

Boston will get four million dollars of federal money for a new PWA project.

And Charlestown will get a new tunnel system instead of the unsightly Elevated structure now operating between Sullivan and Haymarket squares, according to the present plans.

The Sullivan-Haymarket square project was looked upon today as almost certain of meeting with all the requirements of a project.

Originally it had been intended to substitute a subway for the entire line to Forest Hills.

But the cost, $25,000,000, and the length of time needed well over the two years permitted by federal authorities, ruled that out.

The idea of putting the elevated under ground a little at a time was worked out by a conference between Mayor Mansfield, PWA experts and heads of the present Boston Elevated system.

The $6,200,000 is the amount estimated for wages out of the $11,000,000 total cost of the project.

TUBE EXPERTS May Solve Traffic

Engineers of the Holland tunnel, New York City, have been invited here by Mayor Mansfield to help Boston untangle its traffic jams at the Sumner traffic tunnel.

Ole Singstad, chief construction engineer of the New York tunnel and two others are ready to come here as soon as the city port authority grants them permission.

JOBS FOR 3500 WHITE COLLARS

By Associated Press

Washington, July 30—President Roosevelt today allotted $3,450,000 of work-relief funds to the Public Health Service for a survey of chronic diseases.

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming estimated the threefold study would give a year's employment to 3500 white collars now on relief. His statement said it would include

1. A house-to-house canvass in selected urban and rural communities to determine the prevalence of long-standing illnesses among the rich, the poor and middle-class families.

2. Physical examinations, in a small number of instances, to check the accuracy of the canvass reports.

3. A survey of medical facilities, particularly for chronic diseases.

At the same time, Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, announced that adult education classes—designed to provide work for needy teachers as well as an opportunity for self-improvement to grownups—would be continued under the work-relief program.

MARION DAVIES TOPS

New Flicker Hailed, 2d Waited

By Universal Service

Hollywood, July 30—Six outstanding feature length pictures will be produced and released as Cosmopolitan productions by Warner Brothers during 1935-36, Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of all production, announced today.

Two of these will star Marion Davies, who has already completed the first "Page Miss Glory" review audiences who have seen "Page Miss Glory" rate it as one of the best of Miss Davies' hits.

"Page Miss Glory" was adopted from the Joseph Schrank and Philip Dunning sensational successful New York stage play of the current season, and according to all who have seen both the stage play and the screen play, the picture even transcends the stage play in entertainment values.

Jack Warner, his chief production executive, Hal Wallis, and Edward Hatrick, vice-president of Cosmopolitan Productions, are now engaged in carefully selecting the story for Marion Davies' other starring vehicle for the 1935-36 schedule.

Of the four other Cosmopolitan releases, two are already completed.

One is "Navy Sweethearts," the Dick Powell-Ruby Keeler starring picture based upon the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The other is "Special Agent," with George Brent, Bette Davis and Ricardo Cortez, and which is based upon the work of special investigators in the United States Treasury.

A fourth Cosmopolitan release will be "Green Light," based upon the best selling book by Lloyd C. Douglas.

The balance of the six Cosmopolitan releases for the year will be announced shortly.

GIRL, 10, SAVES 3 at Cape Blaze

Chatham, July 30—A blaze in which four persons were nearly trapped in a two story cottage near Jenks Pond, is being investigated today by officials.

Shirley Marriner, 10, of Revere, broke a window in the burning building and led the three occupants of the house to the roof where they jumped 15 feet to safety.

JEWELS LOST On Phillips Craft

Gloucester, July 30—Although a family of four narrowly escaped death when their boat exploded near here, thousands of dollars worth of jewelry and cash was lost when the craft sank, coast guardsmen said.

Three members of the Phillips family were released from the Addison Gilbert Hospital after treatment for burns and exposure. Dr. Charles L. Phillips will be kept at the hospital for another week, it was revealed.

MISSING FROM EVERETT FILES

A telegram, allegedly sent to the Everett collector's office by a high city official, asking for money," is missing from papers held by police as evidence, Attorney John J. Walsh charged today.

Walsh, counsel for Harold J. Gibson, City Hall clerk, who is charged with the larceny of money from the collector's office. Gibson says the money was given to town officials at their request.

GEORGE 10-9 CHOICE OVER DANNO

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS
NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER
BOSTON, TUESDAY, JULY 30, 1935 13

AUSTEN LAKE

No Ties Tonight
As Danno
And Don Wrestle

IT IS REASSURING to learn that there will be no ties, no mutual swooning in the ringside rubbish, and no skull-to-skull knockouts when Danno O'Mahoney and Ed Don George climb into the ring tonight for their blue-banner wrestling classic at Braves Field.

Austen Lake

Only one will come out with the full undisputed world's title, and the match will be settled inside the plush ropes with a minimum of cruising over the press rows or skating off the mat apron.

And when it is ended, somewhat after midnight, a state dignitary or militia pohtician will scramble into the ring and fasten the $10,000 diamond belt, which is wrestling's highest bauble and a jeweled sunburst with a seven-carat gem big as a baby's navel, about the winner's moist middle.

The winner, I trust, will be Danno, as a final decoration to his almost legendary character as a nobody from nowhere who became rich, famous and beloved by all within the short space of eight months.

* * *

The Cinderella Theme

IF THIS COMES OFF it will satisfy the people's craving for the Frank Merriwell and Horatio Alger theme in their heroes and let Danno live as an adult nursery tale to become another male Cinderella, like James J. Braddock, the champion fist fighter who will referee tonight's bout.

Frank Merriwell always played the game cleanly for its own sake and did athletic wonders in the mind and poetic imagination of Burt L. Standish, who created him in paperback form and ran his circulation into millions. Though Standish never bothered to tell how Frank paid his Yale tuition or whether he had a laundry monopoly or a lunch-bar job to see him through.

And Horatio Alger authored yarns about the honest urchin who rescued a rich man's daughter and, through his own industry, rose at the story's end to be president of the factory and the girl's loving husband.

In these tales Merriwell never struck out in the clutch and Alger's urchin never forged the factory's cash balance. So the windup of Danno's tale should be something very beautiful, and it is unthinkable that George may tumble him down in a big pantry smash to spoil the happy ending.

* * *

Danno Has Acquired Knowing

IT IS A LONG SHOUT back to the December day when Danno was a shy, homesick lad with a bird's chirp and a way of blushing before strangers.

He made an embarrassed debut with Ernie Dusek in the Boston Garden and, though full of animal youth and crude strength, was short on his wrestling ABCs and eaten with excitement.

But in the 61 matches since then he has been buttered over with professional polish and has acquired a complete stock of wrestling holds. So that, what he used to do with brute violence, he now does with flourish and finesse.

He has bounced the sawdust filling out of the best of the old mat gnomes like Browning, DeGlane, Sonnenberg, Lewis, Steele, Londos and others. And once he picked up Man Mountain Dean and twiddled him overhead until his suet ran down in great candle drips and the flabby giant whimpered like a small boy.

And once he fetched Rudy Dusek a forearm belt that brought a tomato smear over Rudy's mouth and left him lying limp as a kitchen mop until the ring crew gathered up the remains and trundled them away, swinging like a hammock.

* * *

Lewis Drama Was Best

BUT I ALWAYS LIKE TO THINK of the last Lewis match as a sample of what is best in Danno's art. Because he dusted the Strangler's oyster body over the mat as a housemaid vacuums a carpet and left him under a ringpost looking very empty.

You might have thought that Lewis would be content to catch up on his breath or sort over his bones. But the Strangler rose, shaking his jowls like a woozy old mastiff, and sneaked over where Danno was putting on his ring robe to slap him on the chops.

Well sir! It was like a fire in the Monkey house, with the cops swarming in and Danno hitting everybody a free hand lick like he was shooting punches out of a shotgun. And finally Lewis crumpled up with his chin hanging over the press bench, where a customer jumped up and kicked him flush in the face.

* * *

George Was Just as New

IT IS A LONGER CRY back to the 1929 night that George came to the Arena as an indentured apprentice and made his maiden fight against a hairy Greek from Springfield.

He was a nice looking kid with a fresh coat of college paint, and he went to gathering armfuls of the Greek until he looked like a butcher's boy with a load of smoked shoulders and rib roasts. But he didn't know what to do with all this tangle of anatomy and he would let the Greek unwind himself, until finally, by accident, George got his man in a crotch hold.

Like Danno, he gathered professional polish as he went along. But never being a wrestler who spouted, gurgled or wooshed, George was always unpopular as a champion. Because the people want their champions picturesque or smeared with sentiment. So George, never letting down to the level of a wrestling Huey Long and being just a plain product of North Java, N. Y., drew no payloads to his shows.

There are only a few North Java ex-patriots loose around the country, so Ed never mustered a flock of backers who fastened their affections on him as a homeland symbol as is Danno's case. And when George was flogged and sledged by some whiskery moocher, no North Java delegates wrenched legs off the chairs and rushed to his rescue. He had to take it, naked of any support.

It is odd that the world's two leading wrestlers who throw each other up for grabs tonight should also be the game's foremost gentlemen, whose orderly lives are entered on no police blotters and who are ornaments to the sport.

Because it is usual to match a gentleman wrestler with a hoodlum type whose bar-room tactics of gouging and slugging contrive to make the gentleman wrestler's triumph popular.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE, IS DANNO'S QUESTION

Dreams of conquest and world throne fame were Danno O'Mahoney's today, as he waited the battle of tonight at Braves Field, against World Champion Ed Don George.

Perhaps he'd look like this, thought Danno. A crowd of 60,000 is expected at the Wigwam for the go, most colorful mat event of many years

George Lacks Heart, Says Confident Danno

By Dan O'Mahoney
(Claimant of the World Heavyweight Wrestling Title)

As the hour approaches for my big match with Don George at Braves' Field tonight, I feel more confident than ever that I will be returned the winner and the undisputed world heavyweight mat champion.

Although I am recognized as the titleholder in some 38 states throughout the country and in most parts of Canada and Europe, I know what a victory over George will mean to me—the first undisputed heavyweight grappling champion in years.

When I decided to come to America last December I set the undisputed heavyweight title as my goal, and after brushing aside Jim Londos I don't fear any man in the world.

I want to go back to Ireland with my record untarnished.

After listening to George's radio broadcast last Friday night I haven't very much respect for him as far as being a real sport, but I must admit he is a fairly good wrestler.

However, I think he lacks the heart that is necessary to become a great wrestler and real titleholder.

I have trained long and faithfully for this match, and I intend to shoot everything in that ring tonight.

All that I ask is a fair and square deal from Referee Jimmy Braddock.

LOUGHRAN Win Unpopular

Toronto, Ont., July 30 (INS)—Tommy Loughran pounded out a decision victory over Eddie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, in a 10-round bout here last night, but the verdict didn't rest well with 3000 fans who saw the fight.

They booed the announcement that Loughran was the winner.

Danno Made to Order, Says Mrs. George's Son

By Ed Don George
(World Heavyweight Wrestling Champion)

Ever since I first held the heavyweight wrestling title four years back, it has been my ambition to prove to the world at large that my championship is the only real bonafide mat crown in existence.

I am confident I will accomplish this feat at Braves' Field tonight by conquering the Irish strong boy—Dan O'Mahoney.

As a matter of fact, I was never more confident of winning a bout. O'Mahoney's style of wrestling is made to order for me. If you will look back over my record you will find that I have always been at my best against opponents of the Irishman's type.

I realize the classy list of men that O'Mahoney has waded through since he first put foot in America seven months ago, but I honestly believe I will take him just as easily as he has done most of his opponents.

The "Irish Whip" is nothing new to me. It is simply an old weapon with a few elaborations.

Outside of a few old style holds the Irishman hasn't a thing, excepting, of course, brute strength, I must admit he is one of the strongest men I have ever seen in action, but it generally requires more than strength to emerge the victor.

The "kid" is green in the American style of wrestling, and I will beat him as fast as possible. I really believe I can flatten his shoulders to the mat twice in one hour.

In conclusion I wish to remind my friends and followers that I will be undisputed champion around midnight tonight.

Nordstrom Leads

Indianapolis, July 30 — Lloyd Nordstrom, with a 71, led the Public Links golfers here in the first round by a three-stroke margin.

60,000 WILL SEE TITANS CLASH

Braddock to Referee

WORLD'S WRESTLING TITLE AT STAKE AT WIGWAM TONIGHT IN MAT CLASSIC

By Jack Conway

Ed Don George today ruled a 10 to 9 favorite to successfully defend his world's heavyweight wrestling championship against youthful Dan O'Mahoney in a finish bout, best two falls out of three, at Braves Field tonight.

Jimmy Braddock, world heavyweight boxing champion, will referee.

The greatest crowd ever to see a mat contest is expected to be in the Wigwam when George and O'Mahoney enter the ring for the title battle.

Paul Bowser, who is promoting the contest in co-operation with the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, today predicted the tussle would be witnessed by 60,000 persons and that the gate receipts would soar past $75,000.

The winner of the Braves Field bout will be undisputed heavyweight wrestling champion of the world.

The tittle muddle that has existed in the heavyweight group since Gus Sonnenberg won from Strangler Lewis at the Garden will be definitely cleared up.

I have recognized George as champion in view of the fact he can trace his title claims back to Frank Gotch.

THREE KINGS

O'Mahoney inherited Jim Londos' title claims when he licked the gorgeous Greek in this city. Londos' championship claims were based on recognition from various Athletic Commissions.

I have never believed that any Athletic Commission had a right to strip a title holder of his championship. Titles are won and lost in the ring.

The presence of Jimmy Braddock in the ring as referee will add color to the Christmas Basket Fund show. It will be Braddock's first public appearance in Boston since he won the world championship from Max Baer.

When Braddock calls George and O'Mahoney to the center of the ring, the great crowd will be looking at three champions

George, world's wrestling king.

O'Mahoney, the Irish champion.

Braddock, boxing champion.

Down close to the ring, his great promotion ready to be offered to the public, will be Paul Bowser, leading sports promoter in America. Bowser has the same genius for promotions that gained international fame for Tex Rickard.

Braddock will tell George and O'Mahoney they are wrestling under American Association rules This means it will be a best two falls out of three match if a fall is scored within an hour.

If neither grappler counts with

Big Train

Confers With Alva Bradley

Cleveland, July 30 (AP)—Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians baseball club, said today that Walter Johnson's future as manager of the fifth-place Tribe will be determined at a week-end conference at Detroit.

Bradley said he advised Johnson last night that he would meet him in Detroit to discuss the manager's future with the club "and the welfare of the Indians in general."

"This doesn't mean it has definitely been decided to come to the part of the ways with Walter," Bradley said. "However, our directors feel that we have a tremendous investment and we want to get down to brass tacks, so to speak."

BRITONS Whitewash U.S.

Wimbledon, Eng., July 30 (AP)—The United States was whitewashed in the Davis Cup tennis challenge round for the first time in 24 years today.

Fred Perry defeated Wilmer Allison, 4—6, 6—4, 7—5, 6—3, and W. H. "Bunny" Austin conquered Don Budge, 6—2, 6—4, 6—3, 7—5. Great Britain thus swept all five matches of the series and completed a magnificent second defense of the cup won from France in 1933.

It was America's most humiliating defeat since Australia blanked Uncle Sam's court representatives in 1911 and marked the end of the sixth challenge round bid to recapture the elusive coveted trophy since it was lost by the United States to France in 1927.

Perry and Austin, who accounted for four points between them, shared the honors of the sweeping victory with the veteran George Patrick Hughes and young and powerful Raymond Tuckey, who sprang a major surprise when they toppled the highly-fancied and favored U. S. combination of Allison and Johnny Van Ryn in a stirring five-set doubles match.

Their victory over the American team, coupled with Perry's triumph over Budge and Austin's win from Allison on Saturday, clinched the series for England.

As the result, today's matches actually were meaningless exhibitions carried out merely to determine the size of England's winning margin.

Mr. Boston

Ames on 'Gansett Handle

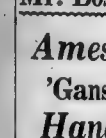
By JACK CONWAY

I HAVE received an interesting letter from Billy Ames, director of publicity at Narragansett Park, in which he points out the high mutuel take at the Pawtucket track, and also the amazing growth of racing interest in New England.

Billy insists Narragansett Park is still the foremost race track in New England. Let Ames tell his own story.

Dear Mr. Boston:

Though race tracks are springing up like mushrooms overnight, Narragansett Park remains the most important track in New England — and the most successful pari-mutuel plant in the whole world.



Mr. Boston

A broad statement, but a perfectly true one and by no means the product of a press agent's over active imagination. The fact is positively established by the strong lead which Narragansett holds over all others in the essential matter of pari-mutuel play. Some racing people profess to look askance at the wagering ads of the game, and prattle their sole interest in race track promotion is to improve the breed of the racehorse. Believe that if you wish.

Constructed at enormous expense and heavily laden with overhead, modern race tracks are operated strictly on business lines, and the measure of their success, or failure, is pretty accurately registered by the daily story told by the "tote" board from the infield.

Granted an equal per capita betting power in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, it naturally follows that the biggest pari-mutuels play must have been made by the largest average attendances. And given the largest mutuels play and the largest attendance, it is logical to assume the favored track must have offered the most outstanding attractions and the best in racing—plus the factors of park beauty, conveniences, comfort and accessibility.

While the managements of Suffolk Downs and Narragansett are operating on a friendly co-operative basis, we are still competitors within certain well-defined limits, and with Suffolk just completing its initial sixteen days it should be permissible to quote the figures that substantiate Narragansett's

• • •

'GANSETT RECORD

FOLLOWING Rockingham's seasonal lead-off of thirty days in May and early June, Narragansett was sandwiched in for a short early summer meeting of sixteen days. Breaking in the innovation of the Daily Double, which now seems a well established success, the Rhode Island plant handled its mutuels play the sum of $6,210,398, to hit a daily average of $382,462.00. High spots were forty-five thousand odd with the D. D. and $64,864 for a single day's play.

Suffolk Downs, in its first sixteen days, handled a total of $5,622,869 to average a daily amount of $351,416, high spots being thirty-nine thousand odd for the D. D. and $645,604 for a single day's play through the machines—problem figures and second only to Narragansett.

The East Boston plant now goes on to shoot at the amazing figures established at Narragansett at our first meeting last year, when in twenty-nine days' racing a total of $11,853,239 was sent through the machines, to set up the remarkable daily average of $408,906. The Downs may beat these figures, but any of the Suffolk boys can bet me anything from a cigar to a new winter overcoat on that one.

With these figures, which outdistance anything else on the continent, New England is firmly established as the leading racing center of the country. The volume of wagers indicates that New Englanders, despite depression times, still have cash with which to strongly support a sport which has swept them off their feet. The keen interest displayed predicates the birth of a new industry—for while horse racing is primarily a sport for the people, it has assumed the proportions of a very real and important industry in this territory.

When the vast amounts that are poured through the machines are mentioned it must also be emphasized that every dollar put in is taken out again in a fashion that stimulates trade. No one individual nor corporation ever retains a sizable slice to salt away in some dark hole that will keep it out of circulation.

• • •

SPENDING MONEY

CONTRACTORS, builders, carpenters, steel workers, painters, decorators, gardeners and many other trades, shared in the million spent for construction of these plants.

They talk of the New Deal. What about the New Deal which has brought thoroughbred horse racing to the New England States, giving a new impetus to trade and opening a new avenue of interest to depression jaded workers—at a

BILLY AMES.

Cancel, Wilson's Choice in First

By Dave Wilson
(Selections Made for Fast Track)
BEST BET—TERALICE, 7TH RACE

Suffolk Downs, July 30—Teralice, Percy M. Pike's handy plater, appears to stand head and shoulders over a field of four opponents in the one-mile of the seventh number on another card of eight sparkling races here tomorrow afternoon.

The five-year-old gelded son of Terry and Alice Harris was up against it in the Bunker Hill Handicap, his last trip to the barrier, and that effort may be tossed into discard. In front of that he was a handy winner of three straight races. A repetition of any one of those victories should result in brackets for the Pike colorbearer.

FIRST—CANCEL, CONCHITA, DROMBO

CANCEL appeared to be a trifle short of work when he finished third to Ima Greenock and Carleton only a few days back. Several hard workouts since then should have served to put him on razor edge. CONCHITA was a galloping winner over True Charm and other fleet ones last trip and on the strength of that effort loome all over the one to fear. DROMBO is a superior mudder that may take the whole pot if the gumbo is in evidence.

SECOND—BROWBEATEN, NARISE, JOHN TIO

BROWBEATEN'S last effort was in the nature of a conditioner and should not be taken too seriously. A duplicate of any one of those good Rockingham Park efforts would just about insure brackets. NARISE flashed a fine performance in drubbing Richstrike and Maiden Dream last trip. The Nenetster colorbearer shapes up as the likely favorite off that performance. JOHN TIO, speedy and unreliable, is capable of upsetting the dope.

THIRD—GOLD STEP, TRAITOR, GAY CREST

GOLD STEP strikes me as being a well placed thoroughbred in the six furlongs of this number. The Saddle Spur colorbearer was outclassed by $1750 top and bottom platers last time out, but ina previous engagement he displayed good form in placing to Lanier. TRAITOR found the one-mile route beyond his staying powers last time out. In front of that he drubbed Aileen C., Jessie D. M. and other fleet platers. GAY CREST, third to Conchita and True Charm, figures best of the others on the strength of that performance.

FOURTH—RENAISSANCE, DIGNITARY, INTEGRITY

RENAISSANCE is entitled to a three-star call in this number despite a top heavy impost of 119 pounds. The Buckland colorbearer toted only two less when he finished third to Midshipman and Easiest Way last trip. DIGNITARY, on general form figures, shapes up all over the one to fear. His best effort was a recent third to Propagandist and Regardless. INTEGRITY, a clever winner of only a few days back, is stepping up a few notches in this company, but merits strong consideration.

FIFTH—GUSTO, SAFE AND SOUND, TIME FLIGHT

GUSTO is a long ways from being the same horse that captured the rich Arlington classic and other important fixtures only a few seasons back, but I believe that his class will stand him in good stead in this affair. SAFE AND SOUND, the gamin danger, displayed good form in finishing third to Bold Lover and Don Guzman last trip. He is picking up six pounds off that effort. TIME FLIGHT, fast and faint-hearted, will likely be on the front end far as he cares to go.

SIXTH—SGT. BYRNE, HAPPY GO, FRISKY MATRON

Going to give SGT. BYRNE another chance in this wide open affair. His recent third to Frisky Matron and Happy Go was very creditable considering that he had very little room in the track. HAPPY GO, a rapidly improving sort, turned in his best performance in this sector in placing to FRISKY MATRON. He is favored by a slight shift in weights. The latter is at the peak of her form and may upset the party again.

SEVENTH—TERALICE, THE DARB, DON GUZMAN

TERALICE will have THE DARB to down for top honors. The latter holds plenty of class and is coming up razor sharp. The Wilson colorbearer is a superior mudder and will be this corner's choice in the event of rain. DON GUZMAN has been raced back into tip-top form and must be accorded at least a fighting chance.

EIGHTH—JUBILARGO, LADY FLINDERS, EDDIE WRACK

JUBILARGO appears best under the weight arrangements. The Gratton colorbearer is coming off an impressive victory and is in nicely under 111 pounds. LADY FLINDERS, a victor over Greygiada last trip, is pretty tough to fear. She is also in any sort of going. EDDIE WRACK, a rapidly improving sort, for the remainder.

CAMERA MAN SEES AN ENGLISH TENNIS MATCH

Donald Budge, young Californian playing his first year as a member of the American Davis Cup team, certainly has taken an extensive course in expression as is shown in his return to H. Henkel of Germany whom he defeated after a bitter match of 7-5, 11-9, 6-8 and 6-1.

English tennis fans are the best in the world, so they say. One thing is certain, that they are enthusiastic. This is evident by the number of seat cushions that cover the playing court. All this occurred when a rain shower caused the postponement of the Allison-Von Cramm match in the final round of the Davis Cup tournament. The English don't like postponements.

King George

at Helm of Britannia

London, July 30 (INS)—George V, Britain's "Sailor King," will personally handle the helm of his Britannia in at least two races against the Yankee, Boston contender for defender of the America's cup, according to reports that excited yachting circles today.

King George and Queen Mary left London today by special royal train for Portsmouth, where they will board the regal motor yacht, Victoria and Albert, to go to Cowes, Isle of Wight, for the annual Cowes regatta.

Yankee won her first race of the season yesterday when she beat Britannia and Endeavor, loser in the last America's cup series.

Mrs. Fabyan Scores Easy Victory

By Associated Press

Easthampton, N. Y., July 30—Mrs. Sarah Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., seeded No. 2, and who is also seeded No. 3 in the national ranking, had an easy task in defeating her opponent Miss Kathleen Fox, of Southampton, in her first-round match of the women's invitation tournament which got under way here this morning, at the Maidstone Tennis Club at Easthampton, 6—1, 6—0.

Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn of Philadelphia, seded No. 4 did likewise in defeating Miss Helen Fulton, 6—2, 6—1. Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, another seeded player, disposed of Miss Catherine Wolf, of Elkhart, Ind., in two straight sets, 6—4, 6—4.

Miss Jane Sharp, of Pasadena, Calif., last of the seeded players, had little difficulty in the first set which she lost, 4—6, but staged a wonderful rally and defeated her opponent, Miss Anna Page, of Philadelphia, by a score of 4—6, 6—2, 6—2.

JEWISH Athletes on GERMAN TEAM

By International News Service

Berlin, July 30—All facilities to investigate alleged discrimination against Jewish athletes in choosing Germany's Olympic team will be given to Brigadier-General Charles E. Sherill, American representative on the International Olympic committee, authorities here pledged today.

The German Olympic committee is prepared to give the American another written guarantee of non-discrimination, Dr. Karl Diam, secretary of the organizing group, said.

Two Jewish athletes—the fencer, Helene Meyer, and the sprinter, Erich Schild—are said to be in line for places on the German team for the games here next summer.

Sherill served notice on the German committee that he would appear around the begining of September for his inquiry.

Hines Wins In Meadow Club Match

Southampton, N. Y., July 30 (AP)—Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, Tenn., southpaw and eighth seeded favorite, was upset here today in the second round of the Meadow Club's annual invitation tennis tournament.

The 19th ranking player of the country followed his doubles-mate and closest friend, John McDiarmid, out of the tourney when Martin Buxby of Miami, Fla., took advantage of his wildness to hand him a 6—2, 7—5 trimming. Aside from an occasional service ace and flashes of good smashing, Bryan was badly off his game, and he proved easy prey for Buxby's steady back court stroking.

Wilmer HInes, recent Scabright finalist and sixth seeded star, won from Norcross Tilney, Princeton University's Eastern Intercollegiate champion, in straight sets, 6—4, 6—3.

Another seeded favorite came through when Gil Hall, Orange, N. J., veteran, lasted fifth, disposed of Bill Fuhlsman, former Harvard captain, at 6—2, 8—6.

What the Stars Did

By Associated Press

Lee Tietje, White Sox—Held Browns to three hits, and beat them 7 to 2.

Red Lucas, Pirates—Stopped Cardinals with four hits.

Willis Hudlin and Thornton Lee, Indians—Hudlin got three hits before giving way to Lee, who fanned Goslin, forced Rogell to pop up with bases full, saving Indians 6 to 5 lead in the ninth.

C. M. A. C. Takes on Arlington

The C. M. A. C. team of Lowell, leaders in the Boston Twilight League race, having played more games than any team in the loop in the second half, will retrench this week and play only one game at home and one away from home.

This knocks out the home and home series the Frenchmen were to start with the Jefferson Club at Hoyt Field on Thursday evening and which was to be completed at Lowell on Saturday.

The Irwin Club of Medford, which played the Jeffersons to a 3 to 3 tie in Medford last week, will make its first appearance at Hoyt Field in place of the Lowell club.

The Lowell team will meet Arlington this evening at Spy Pond Field, while the Lynch Club goes to the Waltham Bike Park to play the Miller Oil team, and the Mayor Irwin team stacks up against the Cambridge Cubs at Thorndike Park, East Cambridge. The Irwins knocked off the Cantabs, 1 to 0, last week at Medford.

The Irwin Club is starting to make some noise in the league. It beat Arlington last evening, 11 to 4, and is building up to become one of the most formidable teams in the league.

Cris Sarno has an eye for the ball lately. He was robbed by Crocco last evening when the latter made a sensational one hand catch.

times when they needed something to blast worries and troubles from their minds?

What if a dollar is lost? Is every dollar lost there is a dollar earned or won by some other fellow. Nobody is grabbing the whole pot. Criticism was levelled at the ERA worker who wagered a two spot on Narragansett's Daily Double and walked out of the park with $2400 in his jeans. They said his case raised false hopes in others.

Well, when we lost all hope and ambition, there isn't much else left in life—and I question whether that $2450 entirely ruined the future of the ERA boy.

Good luck to grand old King Horse—long may he reign.

Your entry must reach the "Daily Double" Handicap Game Editor of the Boston American, P. O. Box 2946, or deliver to 8 Winthrop Square, Boston, not later than 1 P. M. Wednesday, July 31

Here are the Rules:

To play the "Daily Double" Game name the horses you think will win the first and third races at Suffolk Downs. Then place the names of the horses you believe will run second and third in each of the two races.

20 pairs of tickets to the Suffolk Downs Races will be given each day to winners.

Winners will be picked under the following rules:

Entries that pick the "Daily Double" will be given first consideration. Should there be fewer "Daily Double" winners than there are pairs, winners of the remaining tickets will be scored as follows: First counts 8 points, second counts 4 points, and third counts 2 points in each of the two races. The entries scoring the largest number of points will be declared the winners.

In the event there are more "Daily Double" winners than there are prizes, the prizes will be given to the "Daily Double" winners who score the largest number of points in selecting the horses that run second and third in the first and third races. In scoring these winners the following rules will be observed: Place counts 4 points and show 2 points for each race. Tied contestants will each receive a ticket.

In the event any of the horses you pick are scratched, the next horse will be automatically moved up one space on your list. For example, should your first choice fail to start, the second horse named becomes your first choice and the third horse your second choice.

Except where horses are scratched, your selections must run in the order in which you list them on your entry blank in order to be counted. ONLY THE NAME OF ONE HORSE MAY BE SELECTED. WHERE THE HORSES ARE COUPLED IN BETTING, AS IN ENTRIES AND FIELDS, The decision of the judges will be final and no entries returned.

A coupon for Thursday's "Daily Double" selections will be printed Wednesday.

Each day's winners will be printed in all editions of the Boston Evening American the day after the races are run (Saturday's winners in Monday's editions).

FERGUSON Donates Outboard TROPHY

By ED SCHRIFTGIESSER

A new and unusual trophy has been presented by Stanley W. Ferguson Commodore of the Central New England Regatta Association, to be awarded in the big Boston outboard motor boat regatta Aug. 10 and 11.

The $250 prize will be known as the Walter R. Champney Memorial Trophy and will be presented to the high point scorer among the amateur drivers on the Charles River.

The handsome solid bronze clock, which sounds ship's bells, is offered in addition to more than $1000 in cash prizes and trophies worth nearly as much, which have been presented by the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

The generous cash prizes, with $35 first awards for each heat are the magnet for the professional drivers in the contest. For the amateurs the most unusual and valuable prizes seen in any recent sporting event have been gathered.

They range from a complete set of golf clubs, a movie camera and projector, a pilot clock, radio, silver service, and a set of luggage. In every event the value of the first prize is at least $50.

The final bulletin of the regatta was sent out today by Commodore Ferguson to drivers throughout the country.

In it was stressed the fact that the Basin affords a tide-less and current-less fresh water course.

Racing drivers are hesitant about risking their valuable motors on the ocean, as in case of a spill salt water can cause expensive corrosion to delicate working parts.

Today a group of Boston regatta contestants were at Pocasset on the Cape tuning up their motors for the coming regatta.

Included in the group were Clinton and Crawford Ferguson and Marshall Eldredge, the latter a professional pilot.

These three, and Bob Flagg of Humarock are planning to compete this week-end at Winthrop, Maine, where the Lake Maranacook regatta will provide excellent preparation for the big Boston affair.

GREENORE WINS Stewards Cup

Goodwood, Eng., July 30 (AP)—Lady Ludlow's Greenore won the Stewards cup, first feature event of a four-day race meeting, opening here today.

Greenore won by head from Captain J. Fielden's Almond Hill. Cora Deana, owned by Sir Victor Sassoon, was third. Seventeen ran. The starting odds were 7 to 1 on Greenore, 100 to 6 on Almond Hill and 100 to 7 on Cora Deana.

A number of American-owned horses, headed by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand, will compete during the meeting.

GEORGE 10 to 9 FAVORITE

a loss within an hour, one fall will decide the winner.

TACKLE, WHIP

George and O'Mahoney are on the scene of the contest and in the best possible condition. George came in from his training camp at Hull last night and went to the Bradford Hotel.

O'Mahoney motored to Boston from Wayland this morning. He will spend the hours before the bout with relatives in Cambridge.

George plans to carry the battle to O'Mahoney. He believes his experience will enable him to rush the young Irishman off his feet. Don makes no secret of the fact he will try to win in straight falls inside of an hour.

Don will make his big play with a flying tackle and with arm locks.

Ed doesn't believe Danno is any stronger than he is, while he contends he knows more about the fine points of the mat game than the youngster from Ballydehob, West Cork, Ireland.

Meanwhile, fans are advised to avoid the last minute rush and purchase tickets early today at Braves Field, or Prudential Bowser's office, No. 115 Chauncy street, or the downtown office at No. 264 Washington street.

BRAVES To See Danno WRESTLE

By JOE CASHMAN

You'll find a majority of the Braves seated close to the ringside during the Dan O'Mahoney-Don George championship mat melee at the Wigwam this evening.

The average big leaguer goes for the grunt and groan pastime in a big way. Also for boxing. Probably because watching the wrestlers and boxers makes him realize that baseball isn't such a tough racket after all.

The Tribe was originally scheduled to begin a three-game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers this p. m. but the opening has been postponed so that an early start may be made in preparing the field for the wrestling bout. Consequently, there'll be a twin-bill tomorrow.

Since the Phillies don't return to Boston again this season, the washed-out Monday contest can't be played off unless it is shifted to Philadelphia, where the Warriors still have two series to stage.

Our Red Sox, back in fourth place, move into Washington today for a three-game series. They'll return Friday for a short home stay, which will include engagements with the Athletics, Yankees and Senators.

Since the Cronimen hold the edge over all three Eastern rivals to date, they expect to be firmly entrenched in the first division before starting on their final tour of the West.

This has been a most unusual year as regards long winning and losing streaks.

The world champion Cardinals reeled off 14 straight victories over one stretch. The White Sox and Tigers have both won ten in a row. The Pirates captured nine straight. The Cubs go after their tenth consecutive triumph tomorrow.

The Braves lost 15 straight. The Browns dropped 13 in a row.

The Cardinals "gas house gang" seems to have become asphyxiated. In first place, when they took the opener of a double-header from the Giants a week ago today, the world's asphyxiated. In first place are five games back of the roof as a result of dropping a Monday decision in Pittsburgh while the pace-making New Yorkers were idle.

The Bucs, who have won 11 of their last 12 starts, gained a 3-1 edge in the series when "Red" Lucas held the St. Louis entry to four hits as he beat Wild Bill Hallahan, 3-2. One of the bingles off the Corsair was a home run by Pepper Martin.

The victory left the Traynor troupe only 3 games back of third place.

Detroit stumbled slightly in its rush to its second straight American League pennant when its five-game win streak was snapped by Cleveland.

A six-run rally in the sixth at the expense of General Alvin Crowder gave the Indians a 6 to 5 victory.

As a result the Tigers' lead was cut to 3½ games over the Yankees, who were idle, and the Indians crept to within a half game of the fourth place Red Sox, who also had the day off.

MUTTON ROLL APPETIZING MORSEL TONIGHT

CLASS OF FIELD IN REVERE FEATURE

WON LAST BY 10 LENGTHS

By Sam Cohen

Mutton Roll, owned and trained by Doc Austin, is the outstanding dog tonight in the feature race at Wonderland Park.

This fleet greyhound won Saturday by 10 lengths and was never extended.

Moved up slightly in class, he still should have no trouble annexing the main event.

The Motorman, raised and bred on an Oklahoma plain, is very speedy, and if clear of interference could take top honors. Court House of the Oswald Brothers kennel likes the inside. Favored by this position, he might surprise and win it all.

FIRST RACE—Quarter-Mile.

SILENT IKE, MIMI WARCRY, IMPORTANT

1	Blow The	3-5	51	Golden Bear Kennels	Ready at last
2	Mimi Warcry	4-1	49	Mrs. W. Burnell	Schooled Bar champion.

WARE Stakes FEATURE AT SPRINGFIELD TRACK

West Springfield, July 30—With On the Way running at top form, the chart boys are figuring him as the popular choice when he goes to the post with seven other first-rate hounds in the Ware stakes at the Crescent Kennel Club tonight.

Close to 1000 fans from Ware are expected to attend in a body for the eighth one of the big neighboring city programs.

Thunder Storm, Chief Mokan and Clover Ways are figured to give him a royal battle, however.

Gin Buck, a newcomer, breaks into the first race of the night and on schooling form may go to the post a favorite.

YANKEE Pilot Has JITTERS TEAM WEAK WITH CLUB

By Associated Press

New York, July 30—For the first time this season, the New York Yankees have Joe McCarthy feeling slightly jittery.

As the Yanks left today for Philadelphia, McCarthy warned them they must take a quick brace if they are to overtake and lead the geared-up Detroit Tigers under the wire in September.

The end of the most heart-breaking home stand in many years left the Yanks trailing Mickey Cochrane and his pace-setting Bengals by two and a half games. During their stay at the Stadium, their longest of the season, the McCarthymen won only 10 of 23 games.

"We've got to go like everything from now on," McCarthy said. "The trouble is, we're not hitting. Our pitching is good enough. It isn't as air tight as it was during the first half of the season, but you can't expect that. If we could get our pitchers some runs we'd be winning plenty of ball games.

Gomez Helpless

"Look at Gomez. He's having the worst season in three years. Still his pitching is just as good as it was last season when he lost only six games. He's struck out just as many batters and his earned run average is just as low. They're not getting him the runs."

The ace southpaw already has been trimmed 11 times. He has failed to win his last four starts.

To add to McCarthy's woes, tar heel Johnny Allen, the most consistent winner on the staff and the only hurler able to produce victories in the last eight games, is having a recurrence of an old shoulder ailment. He may be on the shelf for a week or so.

Only two regulars—Lou Gehrig and George Selkirk—are hitting over the .300 mark, but that doesn't bother the Yank manager.

"What we need is a few more extra base hits," he said. "We miss having guys come up there and clean the bases. A half dozen .300 hitters would help much if they're all hitting singles."

If his hitters will turn on the power, Joe expects a dog-fight between his club and the Tigers right down to the finish line. He thinks the Cleveland Indians shot their bolt long ago.

McCarthy has a high respect for Cochrane's speedy team, which has thundered up from the rear to seize the lead from the Yanks.

"Any club that can win 11 straight games from Cleveland before being stopped has something," he said. "Besides, the Tigers have scored 130 more runs than the Yankees and have made 31 more double plays."

N. E. Amateur Golf Draw Is Farcical

By BILL GRIMES

In an all match play championship, the draw is of vital importance, and much time and thought should be given to the distribution of the talent . . .

Apparently, the New England Golf Association, which starts its 10th annual championship tomorrow at the Worcester Country Club, either possesses a mediocre knowledge of the ability of the contenders for the title or it believes in protecting the champion . . .

Charlie Clare, Orange, Conn., the titleholder, is in the lower half of the draw along with only a half dozen others who have even an outside chance of reaching the quarter finals . . . Clare is in the third quarter with Ray Lenehan, Metacomet, Eddie Martin, Sandy Burr, and Francis Doyle, Wachusett . . .

Freddie Wright is in the last quarter with Charlie Rounds, the unsuccessful finalist last year, A. Kosmiski, Conn., and Wilfred Crossley, Norfolk . . .

It's very evident that there is not a great deal of opposition in either of these brackets, considering that the field numbers 96 contestants . . .

But it's a far different story for the contenders who are in the upper half . . .

For instance, in the second quarter there are such stars as "Sherry" Monson, captain-elect of the Yale team; Tommy Tailer, former Metropolitan, Rhode Island open and amateur titleholder; Ned Peterson, Oakley; Leo Martin, semi-finalist at Brae Burn in the state amateur; Dow Ahern, runner-up in the New Englands in '32; H. H. Mandly, Conn., and Gerald Anderson, the junior champion of the state.

And in the first quarter the going will be strenuous with Bobby Grant, the 1932 New England champion; Johnny Burke, the Rhode Island "ace"; Joe Lynch, Blue Hill, a former caddy, junior and amateur titleholder of Massachusetts, and L. A. McGowan, Rhode Island . . .

Despite the fact that he is in the toughest quarter of the draw, Munson will bear watching at Worcester . . . He is practically unknown in the section but he has a real golfer and a potential New England champion . . . And I wouldn't be surprised if Ray Lenehan went placed . . . Ray is not only a real fine golfer but he is just cocky enough to upset the dope for some of the boys who are favored to wade through three or four rounds . . .

Charlie MacAndrew, the midget professional from Aldenmarle, and Jim Fogerty, Myopia, staged a great fight for the Central Massachusetts open championship at Wachusett. Charlie shot a sub par round of 70 in the a. m. against Fogerty's 74, a lost ball on the 14th, where MacAndrew holed a niblick shot for an eagle three, costing him a seven.

As they came off the 27th green, Jim had caught Charlie, and they were deadlocked with 115s. MacAndrew went out in front at the 28th, where Fogerty missed the green with his second and took a five, but he was even again at the 30th where Jim came up with a four, by chipping dead from the back edge of the green . . . Charlie took the lead again at 32, with a birdie four, sinking a touch putt from along the side of the ridge, but he "floured" the short 33d where Fogerty came up with a three.

Jim missed a five footer for a "bird" at the 34 and then MacAndrew slid by the same cup for a three from 10 feet . . . With two holes to go, they were all even. It was then that MacAndrew showed the old stuff, for he finished 4-4 against a 5-5 wind up for the Myopia pro, to win by two strokes . . .

Roughneck Pete at Taunton

The featured eighth event at the Taunton dog track over the futurity course appears to be a well-matched race, with Roughneck Pete having a slight edge among the handicappers to come romping down the stretch a winner.

Pete's main opposition will come from Perverse, a winner in his last start against a classy field; Sweet Player, that speedy little lady of the George Lippold akennel; Fu Manchu, a much-improved dog and has shown it by winning his last two races, and Shadow Brook, the winner of Saturday night's 5-mile event in impressive style.

The surprise of tonight's race may be furnished either by Fortune Found or Schooner, two dogs that have shown up well in their recent races at Taunton.

The daily double fields on the second and third races find many familiar names, and it should take some first-class handicapping to pick a winning combination this evening, but the harvest reaped should be nice and juicy.

The windup of tonight's card will find such notable hounds as Echo Back, Side Track, Just A Peach, Scotch Lassie and Traffic staging a great stretch for the top honors in that event.

"Public Enemy's Wife" Warners' Next

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service
(Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service)

Los Angeles, July 30—"G-Men" has changed the map of our studios. Topical stories are now the rage and since it was Warner Brothers who gave the waiting world the amazingly successful "G-Men" epic, naturally they are looking for a follow up. Here it is—"Public Enemy's Wife" which will be based on newspaper headlines featuring the wives of hunted men.

* * *

The idea is so young that no director and no star have yet been chosen but the story is going to be put into production as rapidly as a special writer can get it out. Hal Wallis very specifically states that he has no one gangster's wife in mind although there are a number of women involved in the recent kidnapings who would make good copy for any movie.

The mission that took Dr. Herbert Kalmus to Great Britain has been settled, according to a cable. He has organized Technicolor Ltd. and will immediately start building a new laboratory for the British motion picture industry. His first assignment is with Alexander Korda of London Film Productions and Herbert Wilcox of British & Dominion Pictures.

These two film concerns have made arrangements for the production of colored pictures which will be produced even before the completion of the London laboratory. London, it appears, was given a preview of "Becky Sharp" and went for color in a big way so we may look for many technicolor British films this coming year.

The rumor that Marlene Dietrich was paid $200,000 because her Paramount picture wasn't started in time, was emphatically denied by all the Paramount executives. But they do not deny that British Gaumont is negotiating for the Dietrich. When she finishes "The Pearl Necklace" and "Invitation to Happiness" her contract with Paramount expires and Marlene feels there is nothing to stand in the way of her accepting the British offer. The only stipulation she makes is that Travis Banton, Paramount stylist, design her clothes. Looks heroic for Gaumont if they get Travis.

Vacationing in Europe Loretta Young has been sent a cable to be home the first of September to talk over the story "Ramona," which goes into production September 1. The blonde Loretta plays the part of the dusky-haired Ramona, Helen Hunt Jackson's well loved character.

Of course, I expect there will be a lot of discussion on this choice but both Darryl Zanuck and Sol Wurtzel are entrusting their selection by the popularity of the young name. This, incidentally, will be Sol Wurtzel's first for the new 20th Century-Fox Company.

Little Sybil Jason is the talk of the town since she appeared in the preview of "Little Big Shot" and if she fulfills expectations she will be another Shirley Temple. For the first time since little Temple crept into the hearts of the movie-goers, she has a serious rival. And don't think for a moment Warner Brothers aren't aware of this fact.

In her next picture she plays Kay Francis as a little girl in "I Found Stella Parrish." By the way, Mervyn Le Roy and not Bill Keighley will direct Kay, Keighley having been assigned to "The Radio Jamboree of 1935."

Snapshots of Hollywood

A terrific damper put on RUTH SELWYN'S gay party when her little black Scottie fell into the swimming pool and was drowned; RUTH discommodate: CHARLES LAUGHTON speeded on his way to England by a party given in his honor by JOAN CRAWFORD; JACKIE COOPER all ready for his first trip to Europe; given the ad-vice that his trip must be postponed on account of work: NATALIE TALMADGE KEATON in the hospital recovering from an operation on her foot.

JOCK WHITNEY in a conference with SAMUEL GOLDWYN: looks as if that deal will be settled any minute now; many interesting people at the cocktail party given by THERESA HELBURN and HELEN WESTLEY; they say, on the Fox lot, that BEBE DANIELS' singing voice has never been as good. DICK POWELL playing host to eight friends at his beautiful new home and doing it so well nobody missed a missus: CASEY ROBINSON, popular scenarist, rushed to the hospital for an appendicitis operation.

MARLENE DIETRICH and BRIAN AHERNE dining tete-a-tete and remaining almost the whole evening; GEORGE BURNS giving GRACIE ALLEN a thirty-three carat sapphire and JACK OAKIE a birthday party; MICHAEL BARTLETT making a great hit at the hair stylists' ball where he was roundly applauded; KEYE LUKE giving the "Charley Chan" company a real Chinese dinner; JEAN ARTHUR'S husband, the very attractive GEORGE HENRY, visiting her. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Donat Star Of Keith Film

Robert Donat, who scored his first American film success in the title role of "The Count of Monte Cristo," stars in "The 39 Steps," which takes over the screen at the Keith Memorial tomorrow.

Lovely Madeline Carroll has the leading role opposite the dashing star, in a strong story by John Buchan, the present governor general of Canada. The distinguished author, whose versatility is one of the wonders of this busy age, has turned out mystery romances which have been the pride of England's literary circles, and perfect material for the studios.

Mr. Donat in his new and adventurous role faces death and danger with courage; he meddles in strange plots and stranger mysteries, falls in love, and emerges smiling, gay and unvanquished.

Alfred Hitchcock, who directed "The Man Who Knew Too Much," handled the megaphone for the production.

Godfrey Tearle, Helen Have and Peggy Ashcroft head the cast in this Gaumont-British production.

Tomorrow the Keith-Boston also turns to new fare, with a double feature bill featuring "Hard Rock Harrigan," with George O'Brien in the title role.

The new program also offers "Rendezvous At Midnight," with Ralph Bellamy and Valerie Hobson handling the featured parts. "Hard Rock Harrigan" deals with a feud between a husky rock driller and his tunnel boss, with Irene Hervey as the lovely lady who operates the camp commissary.

Partners in Love and Mystery

ROBERT DONAT MADELINE CARROLL

Robert Donat, dashing hero of "The Count of Monte Cristo," and the English beauty, Madeline Carroll, are co-starred in "The 39 Steps," which opens at the Keith-Memorial tomorrow.

Versatile Actor

During his varied career, Victor Jory, the stage and screen star who is co-starred with Jean Arthur in "Party Wire," now at Jewett State, has been everything from a pugilist to a song writer. He has published dime novels, dug ditches, and worked in a lumber camp.

Esplanade Program

Arthur Fiedler conducts the following program at the free concert at the Esplanade shell at the foot of Mt. Vernon street this evening:

Coronation March ..... Meyerbeer
Eighth Symphony, Opus 93, in F major ..... Beethoven

Selection: "The Fortune Teller" ..... Victor Herbert

Naval Review Is Feature Of Hearst News Film

The current edition of Hearst Metrotone News, on the screen at Loew's Orpheum and other theaters, features the great naval review which culminated the silver jubilee of King George of England.

One hundred and fifty-eight ships, comprising more than 10 miles of sea fighters, pass in review before His Majesty on the royal yacht, Victoria and Albert.

The ever popular Prince of Wales takes part in the ceremony and the pretentious pageant is brought to a close with the firing of a salute to the Royal Family by the giant 16-inch guns.

Edwin C. Hill, Hearst's Globe Trotter, graphically describes this and other events.

The celebration of France's Independence Day, with stirring displays in Paris, is another of the world events pictures. President LeBrun decorates the military heroes, while the Left Wing stages a demonstration, with maimed World War veterans in the line-up, against War.

The gala motorboat regatta, sponsored by William Randolph Hearst in Los Angeles, is caught by the cameraman for the latest edition of the news. More than 25,000 fans attend, with Bill Schuyler the winner of the Hearst Perpetual Trophy.

Chinese floods costing 30,000 lives; the new flivver aeroplane invented by a Chicago man and other happenings of interest importance are brought to moviegoers in the Hearst Metrotone News.

Water Colors in Fine Arts Lobby

The striking exhibition of water color portraits on display at the Fine Arts, is the work of Miss Lucille H. Chapman, young Lexington artist.

Miss Chapman's father is a well known artist and architect, and after studying with him, she continued with the late Vesper George.

The exhibition continues through August 27.

Hecht Film At Fine Arts

For three days only, the provocative film, "Once in a Blue Moon," opens at the Fine Arts theater tomorrow.

Ben Hecht and Charlie MacArthur, who have movie circles talking, fashioned this one, with Jimmy Savo, hailed as America's head pantomimist, with concessions by Chaplin fans, as the leading role.

Hisses and cheers are mingled at the conclusion of the unusual picture. Apparently, you pays your money and you takes our choice. However, so diversified were the opinions, following the single Boston showing at the same theater recently, that Manager George Krakra is presenting it for this brief engagement.

Ruth at Columbia

Columbia has added Ruth Chatterton to an impressive list of major stars.

Double Attractions!

The stars drawn for you in today's "About Faces," a daily feature of the Boston Evening American, are appearing on the screen at the air-conditioned RKO Keith-Boston Theater.

The twin bill presents the movie version of the famous story "A Dog of Flanders" and the picture of the G-men, "What Price Crime." As an added attraction the Boston offers a musical comedy short subject starring the dancer Hal Leroy.

The Boston Evening American, through the "About Faces" series, is distributing to winning contestants, 100 Winship swim suits and cash prizes. In order to obtain one or the other of these desirable prizes, become an "About Facer." Fill in the squares near the drawing of the player depicted above and answer the question.

Be sure to use the all-inclusive dramatic page of the Boston Evening American as a means of alleviating your task. Then save your completed solutions until the end of the week and send them to the "About Faces" Editor, Boston Evening American, Boston Mass. Winners' names will be announced this and every Saturday.

FLOYD GIBBONS

Your old veteran story scooper says he felt desiredly younger when he saw this impression of himself, which was sent to the column by L. B. Bridges, 28 Dartmouth street, Boston.

He certainly doesn't show much mileage in this picture, does he, boys and girls!

Many thanks, Artist Bridges.

Magician Pits Skill Against a Shotgun--and Prays for a Lucky Break

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

A little slow music, and up with the curtain. Hang onto your watches, boys and girls, and don't go lending anybody your silk hats unless you want it turned into a rabbit's nest, for here comes Halton, the Magician—Nat Halton of 42-35 Parsons boulevard, Flushing, N. Y.—with his deck of fifty-two individually trained cards, to give us a demonstration of the wonders that—

Wait a minute—what's that, Nat? I'm sorry, boys and girls, it's my mistake. Nat isn't here to give a demonstration. He's here to join the Adventurers' Club and tell us a story—the story of a jam he got into about thirty years ago in the town of El Oro, way down on the other side of the Mexican border—a jam that not even a magician could get out of without a little luck on the side.

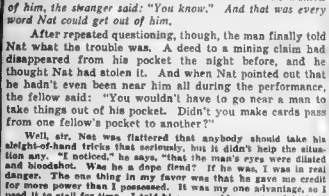
Nat was visiting in Mexico City when a friend invited him out to the little mining town of El Oro to entertain some of the boys who worked in the mines. He went to El Oro, put up at a little hotel in the town, and that night put on a show that was attended by a good portion of the town's inhabitants. The show was run off in a hall in the center of the town. Nat had a good, appreciative audience and he enjoyed every minute of the two hours during which he entertained them with his card tricks and feats of sleight-of-hand.

When the show was over he went back to the hotel and went to bed. But the next morning, at 5:30, he was awakened by a loud knock on the door. When he opened it, a tough looking gent pushed his way into the room and told him to get dressed.

Nat didn't feel like getting dressed at 5:30 in the morning, and he told the stranger so. But the stranger pulled out a gun and stuck it in Nat's ribs, and Nat started getting into his clothes. When Nat asked the bird what he wanted of him, the swanger said: "You know." And that was every word Nat could get out of him.

After repeated questioning, though, the man finally told Nat what the trouble was. A deed to a mining claim had disappeared from his pocket the night before, and he thought Nat had stolen it. And when Nat pointed out that he hadn't even been near him all during the performance, the fellow said: "You wouldn't have to go near a man to take things out of his pocket. Didn't you make cards pass from one fellow's pocket to another?"

Well, sir, Nat was flattered that anybody should take his sleight-of-hand tricks that seriously, but it didn't help the situation any. "I noticed," he says, "that the man's eyes were dilated and bloodshot. Was he a dope fiend? If he was, I was in real danger. The one thing in my favor was that he gave me credit for more power than I possessed. It was my one advantage, so I used it to stall for time. I told him we would go out and find his deed, thinking if we got out on the street I could find some help."



But out on the street, there wasn't any help in sight. Nobody gets up early in Mexico, and at that hour there wasn't a soul awake. The man, with his gun in Nat's back, took him to a small cabin on the edge of the town. There was a pile of papers on the floor in the center of the front room, and a woman was peeping through a nearly closed door. The woman's eyes, too, were dilated and bloodshot—also the eyes of a drug fiend.

Nat was still stalling for time, and his eye fell on the papers piled in the center of the floor. Realizing it would take the man ten or fifteen minutes to go through those papers, he pointed to them dramatically, and said: "Look, there, and you will find your deed."

The man objected. He said he had just looked through those papers, and that's how they happened to be there. But Nat repeated his command, and the man began his search.

"I knew then," says Nat, "that I must plan my escape quickly, and do it in some way that would be acceptable to my captor. Force wouldn't get me anywhere, for the woman in the back room had come out now, and was holding a shotgun pointed at me. Imagine my surprise when the man suddenly rose from the floor holding a document and said: 'Here it is,' and then added: 'But you put it back.'"

Nat pointed out that he hadn't been anywhere near that pile of papers on the floor, but the man reminded him again that anyone who could make cards pass from one man's pocket to another wouldn't have to. However, by this time he was disposed to be more friendly, and invited Nat to have a drink with him. Then, after a few whispered words with the woman, he asked Nat if he could tell him what number would win the capital prize in the Mexican National Lottery that month.

Well, sir, by this time Nat was beginning to get mad at the high-handed way this bird had treated him. "Here," he says, "was my chance to get even. So I told him that I couldn't give him the exact number, but that number thirteen was going to be very lucky in the next drawing, and advised him to buy all the tickets he could find that had thirteen in the serial number. I have never seen that man from that day to this, but I hope he sold his guns to buy lottery tickets, so that if, by any chance, we should meet again, he won't have any firearms left to greet me with."

Well, that's the first time I ever heard of a lottery doing any good for humanity. But you can do the world a lot of good by sending me that story of yours, Johnny. And don't forget to be here tomorrow with "Fire on the Veldt."

It's as easy as just reaching for it—and a heck of a lot more fun. That's what hundreds of Boston American readers say of the $10 and $100 bills they have received from headline-hunter Floyd Gibbons for their TRUE adventure stories. Floyd says everybody has had at least one thrilling experience, and he wants to write up yours. Send him the facts, and win a pocketful of dough, like Mrs. Henry W. Gould of Worcester, who drew a $10 check and a $100 prize.

It's all very simple. There are no rules, and everyone is eligible. Just write down the facts of your most thrilling adventure and mail it to Floyd Gibbons, care of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston. Remember, the story must be TRUE. Don't worry about how well you can write. Floyd will take care of that. Floyd will pay $10 for every story printed and an extra prize of $100 for the best story of the month. Keep a copy of your story if you wish to have it. AS NO STORIES CAN BE RETURNED. Do not send valuable pictures or souvenirs of your adventure. Send the FACTS.

Reports OF COAL Miners

By Hugh E. Bradshaw

While Boston may be well removed from the coal fields of the Rocky Mountain states, it is none the less actively interested in the industry as a large owner of capital invested in it.

Besides the Guffey bill, of doubtful constitutionality now before Congress, the six months report of coal miners currently released are of great local interest. Earnings of Island Creek Coal reported today reveal little leeway in the event of legislation which would raise costs to any extent. For the six months ended June 30 the company earned $1 cents per common share against $1.36 in the same 1934 period.

The rail section stormed its way across the all-important resistance level and acted as a barrier to the advance for so many weeks. The result was a lift in the list of issues who found it impossible to take a whole-hearted bullish stand while industrials alone showed the way to higher prices. New buying, and in some cases buying from quarters that had been out of the market, took place and all sections enabled to negotiate fresh tops. Just as long as the rails retain their buoyancy a general and sudden reversal of trend seems out of the question. Although technical corrections are to be logically anticipated from time to time.

* * * *

Notebook: Last week we carefully outlined the rail shares favored here . . . In the initial upswing the group all acted well. For the present we will not alter the list . . . Libby-Owens-Ford is doing much better . . . And should keep on doing so . . . Radio preferred "B" selling in evidence around 80 on the 20th . . . Back to the price has dried up. Some observers think it has been withdrawn in anticipation of higher and more satisfactory selling levels. We agree. Normal investment resistance level for industrials seems to locate around 152-53 on our chart of the 30 stock average.

Realization of the benefits to be derived from stable prices, largely brought about by NRA, is expected to be of great aid in boosting earnings of cigarette companies. The New England Financial Service in a searching analysis sees this a factor of major importance in view of the trend toward increased consumption. In the future it believes the industry will have to structure its effective advertising instead of cutthroat pricing in attempts to build up sales volume. It will be founded on the average of about 8 cents a package the effect on profits is easily visioned.

* * * *

Shorts: Philip Morris is the tobacco issue favored by the New England Financial Service . . . From the same source we are advised to consider American Tobacco "B" . . . It has a rightful place in the high-priced investment stock category . . . The liquor shares are subject to diverse comment . . . Few and far between are the real bulls on the group . . . Literally a new industry with varied problems to face traders are inclined to look elsewhere for opportunities . . . Distillers Corp.-Seagrams on the the New York Curb is considered an exception.

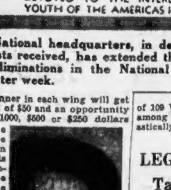
JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

LAWRENCE SHAW — NATIONAL DIRECTOR

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF THE YOUTH OF THE AMERICAS IN AVIATION

National headquarters, in deference to the many requests received, has extended the date for the wing-city eliminations in the National Scale Model contest to Easter week.

The winner in each wing will get an award of $50 and an opportunity to win $1000, $500 or $250 dollars with the same planes in the finals of the contest to be held at the Sikorsky plant in Connecticut. Second and third place winners will receive $25 and $10 respectively.



Bart Bratko

The contest is open to all Junior Birdmen and Birdwomen and only one type entry will be allowed. Manuals fully describing this model, the Sikorsky S-39, may be obtained from Scale Model Competition Department, Junior Birdmen of America, 1834 Broadway, New York City. Send 25 cents, which will be returned when a plane is entered in the wing city competitions. Already hundreds of boys and girls all over the country have sent for their manuals.

Bart Bratko, 14, of 42 Smith street, Allston; Wilbur Tyler, 15, of 77 Foster street, Everett; Ermo Marchi, 19, of 83 Central avenue, Medford and Harold Rubin, 18, of 309 Warren street, Roxbury, are among those who are most enthusiastically preparing for this event.

LEGION OFFICER Talks to Squad

William Jarosch, county chairman of the American Legion, was a guest at a recent meeting of the Ployer Hill squadron of Newburyport, commanded by Anthony R. Gingrande. He talked to the boys about the aims and activities of the Junior Birdmen. Charles Gove and Edward Beal were installed as captain and sergeant-at-arms, respectively.

* * *

A fake "dog fight" and air exhibition were enjoyed by the members of the Three Stars squadron of Somerville, holders of the Boston wing banner, commanded by Guido Novello, when they visited the 102nd Air Reserve Base at Squantum.

* * *

A model airplane contest will be held on August 5 by members of the Lone Eagles squadron of North Cambridge, commanded by Louis Bruneau.

* * *

Note: Every squadron should have its reporter to get full and complete details of the squadron's meetings and activities before the play commander within five days of their occurrence. When a contest is to be held, copies of plans and requirements should be given. After the contest, winners and others, as well as interesting incidents should be given.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

(Membership is open to all boys and girls 10 to 21 years of age, inclusive.)

I wish to join the Junior Birdmen of America. I inclose a ten-cent coin (well wrapped) for my membership materials.

Communism, Nazism or Democracy -:- Which Does America Prefer?

THE outrages visited upon peaceful citizens and minority religious groups in Germany are one of the most powerful INDORSEMENTS (and WARNINGS) that the institutions of a free democracy, such as we are, have ever received.

The attempts of the Nazi absolutist Government to destroy individual liberty and all civil rights should cause every American to pledge himself anew to make war on all those absolutist, liberty-destroying, alien-born doctrines and dogmas THAT HAVE TAKEN HOLD IN THE VERY HEART OF THE NATION—WASHINGTON.

Germany today is in the grip of a gang of extremists whose tyrannical excesses in a country that gave to the world Goethe, Heine, Beethoven, Schubert and Schopenhauer, would have been incredible ONLY FIVE YEARS AGO.

But it is the incredible that happens these days—and what can happen in Germany in five years CAN HAPPEN HERE if we permit that loss of grip on constitutional guarantees that will bring down on us Hitlers, Stalins, Goerings and, above all, mediaevel werewolves like Julius Streicher.

The civilized peoples of the world today stand aghast at peaceful Jews being assaulted in their shops in Berlin, priests being locked up without any specific charges against them, Catholic organizations being dissolved and Protestants by the millions falling under the ban—all because they will not grovel before the maunderings of a ring of fanatics!

But while we swell with indignation at the daily news from Germany, LET US KEEP A SHARP WATCH ON THE FANATICS AT HOME.

The New Dealer Socialists, the Communists, the Nazis, the Fascists in our own country, both of the imported and domestic breed, are fanning the fires of class hatred BOTH BY LEGISLATION AND BY PROPAGANDA.

Russia and Germany—two slave-paved obligarchies—show us that class hatred breeds murderous acts of religious hatred.

Every political absolutist eventually breeds a Julius Streicher.

Germany is crushing all minority rights under her heel, as Russia and Italy have done.

The rulers of all three countries RIDICULE DEMOCRACY and free institutions as vestiges of the HORSE-AND-BUGGY ERA.

Germany, like Russia, after her post-war revolution became a democracy. The Kerensky Government was strangled by the throat over-night.

In Germany, the process was slower. With all her ills, she should have held on to her democratic ideals.

* * *

LET US UNDERSTAND AND APPRECIATE AND MAINTAIN OUR CAPITALISTIC - INDIVIDUALISTIC DEMOCRACY.

LET US CORRECT IT AND PERFECT IT, OF COURSE, BUT LET US REALIZE THAT AT ITS WORST IT IS BETTER THAN ANY FORM OF GOVERNMENT THAT PRODUCES STREICHERS, HITLERS, GOERINGS AND STALINS.

While at its best, stimulating individual effort, creating wealth and distributing it liberally in wages, preserving independence, protecting individual liberty, it is the ideal government of the ages.

Real Estate Taxes

Bar to Raising Them

THE Committee on Taxation of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts and the Committee on State Taxation and Expenditures of the Boston Chamber of Commerce join in a timely warning against new taxes.

The facts they bring to light are NOT NEW, but are so commonly ignored that they need forceful calling to attention.

"Taxation of real estate is universally agreed to be excessive already," the committees' finding asserts, "and any substantial increase in the rates of these taxes not only tends to STOP ADDITIONAL BUILDING but would also lead to ABANDONMENT of some property now paying taxes."

In spite of these obvious facts, 1935 is witnessing "substantial increases" in real estate taxes in many cities and towns.

"Increased taxation of manufacturing corporations will tend merely to accelerate the exodus of industry from the State," the committees conclude.

AND IT WOULD DECREASE PAYROLLS AND ADD TO UNEMPLOYMENT.

Evidently the tax situation needs the label seen on fragile boxes:

"HANDLE WITH CARE."

Medical Charity

Don't Steal From the Poor

The investigating committee of the Massachusetts Medical Society has done good service in exposing chiselers on medical charity.

It has shown that many ABLE TO PAY have secured free treatment at some of our hospitals.

Such chiselers may NOT realize it, but they are stealing what belongs to the needy.

"Persons able to pay," runs the report, "know that free patients in hospitals have good doctors, good food and nursing service.

"They cannot understand why they should not benefit by a service which they help maintain by taxes."

What's YOUR idea?

Isn't it possible that a person who would cheat in connection with a hospital bill might also evade other just debts.

Moody's Conference

For Good of Man

In picturesque Northfield Dwight L. Moody's General Conference is under way for its 55th season.

The "good of man" has been its aim down through the years.

Mr. Moody was among the first to see that the "calico" girl might be as deserving of help and an education as was the "velvet" girl.

And he made due provisions for BOTH.

Plans for observance in 1937 of the hundredth anniversary of this great religious leader should receive hearty support.

Hoboes Barred

From War Memorial

City authorities cannot be accused of having acted with undue haste in barring hoboes from the World War memorial tank on Boston Common.

None too soon are they having constructed the fence around the Memorial trophy to keep out intruders.

The tank that a few years ago rolled along the fighting front in France, its sides battered by shellfire, must be preserved as long as possible.

It will afford inspiration to FUTURE DEFENDERS of Old Glory.

And the hoboes should be cared for elsewhere

Mr. Astor's Yacht

And Ships Which Didn't Come Back

Mr. John Jacob Astor, 3rd, is somewhat perturbed because his yacht Laurion has been declared technically unseaworthy by government inspectors.

Mr. Astor should consider himself lucky.

Others went to sea in vessels which had not had the benefit of such close inspection.

The Vestris, the Morro Castle, the Mohawk!

Remember them?

The Tunnel Builders

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Frogs helped to save human life in the building of the mid-town Hudson Tunnel, in New York City, which will be "holed through" any day now.

As subjects for experiment, they helped to check the proportion of free nitrogen under increasing air pressure, the deadly effects of a nitrogen bubble in the bloodstream and treatment for the dreadful bends—the sandhogs' occupational curse.

Edwin C. Hill

At record speed and with a minimum of death and injury, the under-river tube has been driven through since last December. The bends is virtually conquered.

Not only the frogs, but also human beings figure in intensive scientific research and experimentation by which, with proper care and a utilization of sound technique, men need no longer suffer the devastating agonies which so frequently have wrecked or killed tunnel workers.

FINE RECORD

The new tunnel is not only an engineering triumph, but it is a victory of organized intelligence over a terrible human affliction.

Medical and engineering knowledge, plus enlightened legalism, working through the State Department of Labor, has made the deepest caissons reasonably safe for sandhogs.

Never has a great tunnel been finished with a better record for safeguarding human life and health.

The machine age Caliban comes up from his cave no longer distorted and in agony. The bends used to take at least one life a month, when they first started to tunnel under the Hudson, fifty years ago.

The disease crippled for life countless other workmen. Accidents took a heavy toll in killed and injured.

In the eight tunnels driven under the East River from 1914 to 1921 there were only two deaths from the bends, but there were many seizures and much ruin of health and earning power.

Studies and experiments begun in those years and continued down to today have not banished the danger, but they have made the bends probable by attention to the best engineering and medical technique.

Air pressure as high as fifty pounds to the square inch must counteract the terrific outer pressure on the walls of the tunnel, as the sandhogs go ahead of the penetrating shield to clear the way for the metal and concrete tube.

No man could live under this pressure unless he were conditioned to it by a previous processing through air chambers in which the pressure was gradually stepped up.

About one minute in the antechamber is required for each foot of depth at which the sandhog will work—an hour in the air chamber for work in a tunnel 60 feet under the river.

Similarly, they must be gradually stepped-down to normal air when they emerge.

It is the highly expert knowledge and control of these processes which gradually have made the bends preventable. The sandhogs are a hardy and lusty clan, having a guild of their own and not having to worry much about competition.

THE SANDHOGS

There are at work in the Mid-town Tunnel descendants of generations of sandhogs.

Their fathers and grandfathers were brought over from England or Austria.

With the easing of their lot, greater safety, higher wages and shorter hours, many of these like their jobs and start their boys rooting down under rivers and mountains.

The working day is usually two or three hours, but at an extreme depth of around 100 feet, it is only one hour, and the wages are $10 a day.

While it is loosely regarded as unskilled labor, they must, in fact, master some quite complicated techniques, including blasting, and the swift placing and bolting of the metal segments of the tunnel rings.

The menace of the bends by no means constitutes the only danger faced momentarily by the sandhogs, and they are not a select insurance risk.

Down under the river they are equilibrating forces equivalent to the impact of a fourteen-inch shell—holding these explosive forces in leash, if they are lucky, and if not, getting blown into the hospital or the obituary columns.

New York Day by Day -:- By O. O. McIntyre

New York, July 30—New York notables are not always to be seen in the flashy or exclusive restaurants. There are, of course, the opulent strivers who fill much space in the social chit-chat columns and are classed as "cafe society." They are always in the tony spots.

But almost every celebrity has his private haunt, usually some plain and neat kitchened place off the traveled trails where the proprietor may do the cooking and his wife the serving. Where the service is leisurely but instincts for cuisine strong.

The Paul Whitemans are frequently diners at Schrafft's. Also Amelia Earhart. Earl Carroll favors a Chinese place, Chow Mein. Mrs. Raymond Hitchcock entertains in Armenian cafes. The Roy Howards have a Japanese favorite in 57th street. Floyd Gibbons likes owl wagons for midnight snacks. Joe Cook, Chili Villa.

Leon Gordon tosses parties at the Italian Del Pezzo up a rickety stair. The William Caxtons are regulars at a Spanish spot in Sheridan Square.

The Isaac Marcossons prefer a German kitchen in Yorkville. John Boettcher, the President's son-in-law, frequents a three-tabled place in rear of a French delicatessen.

A bleak desolation stagnates 5th avenue after 8 in the evening. Aside from the occasional night watch or chance straggler it is lifeless. For years it was the 8 to 11 promenade, a paradise for window shoppers.

Today some stores do not light their windows, so scant is the parade. And the brashless architectural grandeur of Radio City has saved the avenue by day. It was slowly sinking when the Rockefellers threw the lifeline.

Karl Harriman, so long an editor of magazines, has in retirement finally found opportunity to satisfy an ambition that tagged his heels since youth.

He is directing plays and acting in them in one of the red barn enterprises in Vermont. It was Harriman who gave Eddie Guest his first rhyming book and started him on his way. Now, strangely enough, in maturity they look like twins.

A full stop in Manhattan skyscrapers seems at hand. On the site of the old New York theatre, one of Broadway's choicest corners, rises a two—count 'em two—story building. On the old Hammerstein theatre site a modest structure goes up.

Six years ago such sites would have out-empired the Empire State building itself. Not many buildings under construction are more than four stories, mostly two. This type, when finished, is quickly filled. Taxes are lower, and rents, too. Many believe there will not be another 30-story building in this decade. Or the next.

Rupert Hughes' oration at the bier of his long-time friend, Ray Long, is reputed to have been one of the most masterly talks he ever delivered in a career of distinguished oratory. He was talking to a group of 20 sorrowful writers who had felt the touch of genius Long displayed in guiding the works of authors.

It was an eulogy that wrung the hearts of men skilled in the portrayal of emotion in others, briefly beautiful. Long's ashes are to be scattered over Bohemian Grove in California, where he relaxed every summer.

The biggest serial circulation booster ever written was turned out by Robert W. Chambers for Cosmopolitan 20 years ago. One month after the first installment the circulation shot up a million and maintained it until the finish of the tale and much of the increase was held.

So avid was the public for this serialization that newsstand dealers held back large numbers of their supply and bootlegged them to enthusiasts for $1 a copy. The novel was "The Common Law."

The Interesting World

By Edgar A. Guest

Blind I was and failed to see,
Bud and leaf upon the tree,
Deaf I was and failed to hear
Wren and robin singing near,
Once I fancied life was made
For the loss and gain of trade.

Thought I once: "No day goes well
Save for profit I can sell.
Time is money; days are meant
In its service to be spent.
There is nothing else of worth
To be found upon the earth."

(Copyright, 1935, Edgar A. Guest)

Thus I walked 'mid walls of gray
Like a prisoner, day by day.
Tulip and forget-me-not
Blossomed, but I saw them not.
Did a cardinal sing on high
Suddenly I passed it by.

Blind was I and failed to see
Just how varied life can be.
Every day brings splendore new
For the eyes of man to view.
With an endless source of bliss
It is tragedy to miss.

'Dear Govt.' -:- By Winston Norman

Miss Madam Perkins,
RIOT DEPT.
U. S. Govt.

Dear Miss Perkins:

MY wife Mabel comes from the same Sex that you come from, Miss Perkins, and she is strong for Women's Rights.

"Women's Rights ought to be swung on their Husband's Jaw, and also a couple of quick Lefts," says Mabel.

Well, Miss Perkins, we was talking about you being a Famous Sample of the Female Race, and Mabel says:

"My Goodness, why don't Miss Secretary Perkins get more of a say in running the Govt?"

I told her you was going to Madam Sec., on acct. Congress passed the Wagner Labor Disputes Bill, so you and Mr. McGrady, your Assistant Sec., was going to be busy as a couple of Govt bird dogs.

"What is this Wagner Bill?" says Mabel, real ignorant.

I told her the Wagner Bill was a thing where our Govt. will help us have a lot of Nice, Peaceful Strikes all over the U. S.

"About 6 weeks after a Strike begun," I says to Mabel, "that is where Miss Perkins finds out that it is about to end, so her and Mr. McGrady names Mediators to go and set on a Board."

"Gracious," says Mabel, "don't that hurt the back end of a Mediator, setting on a Board?"

I said I didn't know about that end of it, and even if what he set on begun to hurt him, a Mediator wouldn't have no time to complain, because most of the Govt. Mediators was preachers, and they would be busy at giving a Christian Burial to folks that got killed in the Riots which took place while the Mediators was asking questions about the Strike.

Mabel give a sniff, she says:

"If I was the Madam Sec. of Labor there wouldn't be no riots in the strikes, because I would keep people happy with Games & I would write them nice Pomes on Peace."

"Poof," I says, "you couldn't write a Pome, you are just a Wife and you don't know nothing about anything."

"Oh I don't, don't I?" says Mabel, real mad, "Well I am going to show you I am not a Fool, even if I DID marry you."

Well, Miss Perkins, you got to hand it to my wife, because in about ½ hour she set down & wrote a better Pome than she can fry a Lamp Chop, and this is how it went:

We'll have some lovely Strikes because
Miss Perkins is a Lady,
And so is her Assistant, mister Edward F. McGrady.
They name the Boards for all our Strikes,
And gladly they will send them.
To keep our Strikes alive until
The President can end them.
So 3 Cheers for the Wagner Bill,
Us Working Girls have read it,
The New Deal lets us take the Cash
And they just take the Credit.

Yrs. truly,
W. NORMAN.
